Recalled trustee seeks school board seat

Gerald Budd, who was recalled March 4 along with three other school board trustees, is one of five candidates who has filed petitions for two open seats in the June 12 election.

In all, 13 candidates have filed for five open seats, with Budd's last-minute entry coming just five minutes before the deadline.

There is some question whether Budd can run for the school board after being recalled just six weeks ago. Legal opinions are being sought to clarify the issue.

Budd, 50, of 12103 Schultz, is an elementary school counselor in the Taylor School District and was president of the Romulus School Board when he was recalled.

Competing with Budd for the two four-year terms are Miles Johnson, 72, a retired brick mason, 36015 Beverly; Michael D. Woods, 28, director of Romulus housing, 35627 Garner; Joseph M. Filbert, 27, industrial, 34518 Stewart Dr.; and Theresa M. Kraft, 34, letter carrier, 14738 Inkster Rd.

One of three candidates for the three-year seat are Sheldon L. Chandler, 47, husband of Gloria Chandler, one of the four trustees recalled. He is an inspection supervisor at Detroit-Diesel and resides at 9261 Ozga. The other two seeking that seat are Evelyn E. Hopewell, 36, director of Wayne County MIC-PRESCAD Clinic, 11087 Whitehorn and Richard J. Zavodsky, 36, program change coordinator for Ford Motor Co., 36775 Neville.

Three are also running for the two-year term. They are Andrew Orgovan, Jr., 46, quality control engineer at Chrysler Assembly plant, 6896 Ball Rd.; Margaret A. Cole, 37, housewife, 34949 Julie Dr.;

and Barbara A. Schuster, 29, homemaker, 15505 Oakbrooke.

The two candidates running for the one-year seat are Alan J. Satterlee, 29, coordinator, Romulus Help Center, 15022 Brandt and Jo Ann Marvicsin, 39, housewife, 37020 Mario Ann Ct.

There will be a "Meet the Candidates Night" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 27, at Romulus City Hall.

It will be jointly sponsored by We The People, a non-partisan civic group, and The Romulus Roman newspaper.

All candidates for the school board will have the opportunity to answer questions from moderator Dennis Fassett, managing editor of Associated Newspapers' six weekly papers, and to explain their stand on various issues to the public.

Tax reformer speaks

Richard Headlee, president of Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, addressed an estimated audience of 100 persons Monday evening at Romulus High School. The staunch tax reform advocate is an accomplished speaker and told his audience what his statewide group has been doing in the area seeking tax relief. He's shown here with part of the audience in the high school auditorium. See story on page 3. (Photo by Jay Young, Romulus Information Office).

Storm brews on hiring of mayor's new aide

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

After a few months of relative calm, a storm is brewing over John Shea, the man Mayor William Oakley hired as his aide last November.

The issue has been on simmer the past three weeks but came to a boiling point at last week's council meeting.

Although a majority of council members said they were in favor of the mayor having an aide, they have been disputing over what title to give the new position. In addition, Councilman Beverly McNally has made two motions in recent weeks to transfer funds that would ostensibly cut off Shea's paycheck.

However, Mrs. McNally has never publicly said that was her purpose in having council transfer the funds.

The issue became even more heated last week when Councilman Ray Cantrell publicly claimed City Clerk Leonard Folmar said Cantrell wanted Shea fired.

During discussion on whether to hire a "helper" on a contract basis for the mayor, the titles of coordinator, aide, and assistant were bandied about.

Councilman Mary Carter said she had "no problem" with the title, but "My intent was that this person be under a contract for two years. He could be terminated on 30 days' notice by either party."

"This (contract) was my idea of solving the matter."

Mrs. MacAnally said, "I think the reluctance to identify this position in the budget is unfortunate. I am concerned that our city has not grown that much or services rendered with the additional employees."

Shea, 23, is currently being paid out of the ordinance enforcement budget and has the title of computer rental coordinator.

Both Oakley and the council feel they are right in the hiring or not hiring of Shea. Oakley introduced Shea to the council as his assistant immediately after winning the mayoral race last November. Oakley said the council greeted Shea warmly and felt there would be no problems.

However, according to some council members, Oakley already had Shea hired as his assistant before there was even a position and a salary for the job. They, in effect, felt Oakley was forcing his assistant upon them.

So, that's the background to the situation that has bogged down and even developed a little bit of intrigue. Councilman Cantrell said at last week's meeting that Folmar went to Cantrell's union leaders to persuade him to approve the hiring of Shea.

At first Folmar denied it, but then admitted talking with John Sudbury, assistant director of United Steel Workers Local 129 at Great Lakes Steel, where Cantrell works.

"I called him, yes," Folmar admitted during the discussion, "but I only asked him to tell you how important it was to resolve this matter of the mayor's aide."

Cantrell said after the council meeting that he personally liked Shea, but didn't feel the mayor needed an aide. "I wasn't trying to get the man fired. All I can say about John Shea would be good," Cantrell said.

Folmar explained his intentions in talking with the union leaders was simply to have someone "who had Cantrell's ear" to explain how important it was for the mayor to have an aide.

Cantrell, in explaining why he felt the mayor didn't need an aide, said, "I think Bill (Oakley) is doing a good job, but he's trying to do too much. The department heads need to get up off their duffs and do something."

"I'm opposed to him having an aide at the present time until his department heads do their own work. If after that he still needs an aide, then I'd go for it."

Oakley told the council, "I have no objection to this method. A contract is okay with me. I have a verbal contract with him. The fellow knew his job might end in two years."

"My main concern is that we don't discriminate against this employee. This employee is uncomfortable in the present situation."

"We need to get off dead-center. I just want to settle the matter."

ANP editor will moderate political meet

We The People, a non-partisan civic group, and The Romulus Roman, will again team up to present a "Meet the Candidates Night" on Thursday, April 27, at Romulus City Hall.

The opportunity for local residents to meet the 13 candidates running for the School Board will begin at 7:30 p.m. and be held in the City Council Chambers.

Last September a similar Meet the Candidates Night was held at Romulus High School when 23 candidates for municipal office had an opportunity to give their views. Many called it the most successful such event in the city's history.

Dennis Fassett, managing editor of Associated Newspapers six weekly papers, will be moderator for the evening. Candidates will have the opportunity to introduce themselves and then will be asked questions by Fassett from a prepared list. Then those in the audience will have an opportunity to ask questions.

Fassett has moderated "Meet the Candidates" nights in several communities of Associated Newspapers' circulation area and they have been hailed by all involved as very helpful to the community.

"We The People feels the voters must acquaint themselves with the candidates and evaluate him or her before casting their votes to fill this very important position," said Richard Campbell, acting chairman of We The People.

"I certainly hope the citizens realize how important it is to select the most qualified people to rebuild the school board," continued Campbell, who was one of four appointees named by Gov. William Milliken to replace four school board trustees recalled in the March 4 recall election.

Neither Campbell or the other three interim appointments are running for the school board in the June 12 election.

"Those elected will be responsible for the education of the children of this community. They will also be responsible for the expenditure of more than 60 percent of our tax dollars," Campbell said.

Former coach named new athletic director

Bill Hardy is returning to Romulus after an absence of five years.

The former Romulus High School teacher and head football coach was named new athletic director of the school district by the school board Saturday.

Hardy, 33, taught in Romulus from 1970-73 before leaving to coach in the college ranks. He is presently assistant football coach and a physical education instructor at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

He was one of 29 who applied for the athletic director's job when Ed Baum resigned for health reasons earlier this year. A screening committee, consisting of Principal Joel Carr, Baum, and Marvin Fischer, asst. supt. for instruction, cut the list to five.

One dropped out and the school board interviewed four candidates Saturday and named Hardy to the post.

"The board felt all four were outstanding candidates and were extremely well qualified," said School Supt. James Garfield. "It made the board's decision extremely difficult but the school district is fortunate to have such highly qualified persons applying for the job."

Hardy and his wife, Carol, are the parents of two children.

Although no set date was named for his arrival, Hardy is expected to assume his new duties as athletic director in Romulus about the middle of May.

Ethnic Festival set by 4-H

Wayne County 4-H youth will sponsor an Ethnic Festival on April 28, 29 and 30 at Westland multi-purpose arena for all the residents of the county.

Hailed as the only festival of its kind, residents are urged to come and learn the cultural and historical values of many different ethnic groups living in the Wayne County, Tri-county area.

The festival is sponsored by youth to generate their heritage to all visitors. Featured events will be dancing (all ethnic groups), fashion show, crafts, international fashion show, pastries, Shriners Highlanders Pipe and Drum band, poster contest, awards and clowns.

There will be fun and entertainment for the entire family free of charge.

"I would like to point out that this is the first time such an event has been planned to take place in the western Wayne County area," said Joyce Palmer of Romulus Neighborhood Center.

She praised the dedication, hard work and cooperation of Wayne County 4-H staff, Romulus Neighborhood Center, all surrounding community schools, sponsors and everyone working on the event.

"Unity is a community affair and we encourage all residents of the surrounding Communities to come and 'share your roots,'" she said.

Senate honors late Clayton Meldrum

The Michigan State Senate recently passed a resolution praising the late Clayton W. Meldrum for his outstanding civic service in Romulus. Mr. Meldrum died in February. Presenting the framed resolution to Mayor William Oakley to be placed in city hall is Mel Morgan, who made the presentation on behalf of the family. The brief ceremony took place at last week's city council meeting.

Through Skywarn program

Volunteers are on alert for 'bad' weather

Wayne County officials are well prepared to warn the public to take cover from potentially dangerous spring weather — including tornadoes, severe thunderstorms and flash floods.

That assurance came after a recent check with the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP), regarding plans to protect the public from threatening weather.

The OEP and a specially trained volunteer staff of ham radio operators have a well-developed communications plan to cover its 51 Skywarn tornado watch network.

Within 30 seconds of a funnel sighting, the Skywarn program is capable of broadcasting a warning throughout six counties in southeastern Michigan. When severe weather conditions are indicated, a group of specially trained volunteers rush to their spotter stations to begin the watch for potential funnel clouds, which strike most often in the April-to-July period.

The operators are equipped with radios that provide immediate two-way voice contact with their base station, located at the Wayne County Emergency Operating Center in Westland.

The area residents are among the 135-member volunteer staff that is available to man "carefully selected" lookout points throughout the county's 622 square miles.

Generally, the lookout points are located in shopping center parking lots and along open roads so that the hams can monitor the weather from their cars and report on their mobile radios.

"The Wayne County volunteers are particularly important in helping avert tornado disasters because tornadoes can't be detected by radar until they have hit the ground and picked up a lot of debris.

With the mobile stations linked to the Wayne County Sheriff's radio transmitter, a spotter's warning can be broadcast immediately over an inter-county police radio network, covering Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Monroe, Washtenaw and St. Clair counties.

"The warning then can be relayed via community sirens and radio and television to the public.

Skywarn was organized two years ago by the Wayne County OEP in cooperation with the National Weather Service. The service trains the volunteers in identifying the turbulent, lightning-streaked thunderheads, which often produce tornadoes.

Volunteers attend a three-hour class at the OEP, located on the grounds of Wayne County General Hospital in Westland.

The skywarn program goes into effect whenever the Weather Service declares a tornado watch — when conditions exist that could produce a tornado, but no funnel clouds have been spotted.

A tornado warning is declared once a funnel cloud has been sighted.

Cedar Drive and Raymond McDonald of Sheeks Boulevard, all of Flat Rock; Austin Hoffman of Willow Street, New Boston; Louie Michalik of Huron River Drive, both of New Boston; William Stamps, Norman R. Lewis of Mildred Street, Rosemary Lewis of Mildred Street, Samuel Kirtley of Mildred Street, Donald Kinnell of Niagara Street, Nicholas Zamorylo of Elm Street, all of Wayne; and Lloyd Opp of Cowan Road, Paul Fekety of Warren Road, Russell Van Zanten of Minerva Street, Charles Reichert of Affeldt Street, Rodney Deyo of Gilchrist, Martin Moran of Sheridan, Henry Mellor of Filbert Street, Hassell Stact of Glen Street, Charles Matson of Henry Ruff Road and Clarence Harms of Gloria Street, all of Westland.

Tornado Alert team

The Wayne County Office of Emergency Preparedness in Westland works closely with a specifically trained volunteer staff of ham radio operators to provide "instant warnings" to the public, if funnel clouds are sighted. At their base station, surveying lookout points recently, were

Bill amends heating act

State Rep. Robert C. Law (R-36th District) has introduced legislation expanding the eligibility requirements of the Home Heating Assistance Act to permit more senior citizens to participate in the program.

The measure would amend the act to include families whose liquid assets are less than $15,000 after they subtract the amount received from the recent sale of their home.

"The act originally was intended to provide senior citizens relief in paying their utility costs, which are so burdensome these days," Law said. "However, after it was approved, it became apparent that there is a strong inequity in the funding limitation. Many senior citizens who have owned their own homes and have sold them in the last couple of years are disqualified because those funds now are in the bank, and their account is larger than $15,000.

"We are attempting to change that law so senior citizens will have an equitable shot at receiving funds which are intended for them."

Law explained that the amendment would permit a household with liquid assets of $15,000 or more to be eligible to receive benefits, if all of the following circumstances can be demonstrated:

—If the head of household is 65 years of age or older;

—If the family had sold its home within the past 24 months for $15,000 or more; and —If the liquid assets of the family after subtracting the amount received from the home total less than $15,000.

"I have received a lot of support from senior citizens groups in Western Wayne County," Law said, "and the bill has received broad bi-partisan support.

"It in no way changes the intent of the Home Heating Assistance Act, but simply corrects an inequity. I hope it receives favorable action when it reaches the House floor."

Romulus trackmen breeze past Willow Run

An accommodating Romulus High track team, quickly transformed from visitor to host, had too much for Willow Run as the Eagles breezed to an opening day victory, 93-54.

"Willow Run was designated as the host school for the meet, but because the field over there wasn't ready we agreed to stage it," said Romulus Coach Al Wilkerson.

Wilkerson's Eagles captured nine of the 15 events, (the pole vault event wasn't held because the pit was the ready as yet) with Don Grandison and Steve Zimmerman accounted for two events apiece.

Grandison soared 19 feet, 1 1/4 inches in the long jump and cleared the bar at 6 feet, 2 inches in the high jump, while Zimmerman was the best half-miler in the meet, hitting the wire at 2:14.7. He was also the winner in the mile, showing a 5:01.4 for his efforts.

Tax reform advocate has fervor of 'tent revivalist'

"He comes on with all the fervor and righteous indignation of a circuit-riding tent revivalist and all the subtle persuasion of a snake oil peddler at a medicine sideshow."

That's one observer's description of Richard H. Headlee, a tax reform advocate, who spoke to a large group of Romulus residents in the auditorium of Romulus High School Monday night.

And best of all, his hearers say, the gifted speaker is fighting to have a lid put on taxes the public has to pay.

"I'm tired of financing government with property taxes," Oakley said in announcing his invitation to have Headlee speak.

"We need another another way for people to work to pay off houses and feel comfortable and confident in enjoying the remainder of their days in their homes.

"This tax limitation proposal is a first step in limiting government spending. I strongly urge residents to attend this program if they share my interest in tax reform."

"This is an important effort to bring taxes down to a level people can afford," Oakley concluded.

President of Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, Headlee and his organization are garnering statewide and even national recognition for a popular movement to place a limit on the amount of money the state can take from you every year in the form of taxes.

Founded last year when a similar move was defeated at the polls, Headlee's group is optimistic it will not only get the required 266,000 signatures to place the proposal on the November ballot, but that it will be passed overwhelmingly by Michigan voters.

Speaking before a meeting of Wayne County Association of Local Government Officials, Headlee cited some disarming statistics to illustrate his point that government growth is out of control.

For instance, he says, "The number of state government employees grew 50.3 percent in the past 10 years compared to a general population growth of only 6.7 percent for the same period."

"In the past 10 years, state spending increased by 250 percent, almost double the growth in the personal income of the people of Michigan."

The proposed amendment, according to Headlee, would stabilize the growth of government by permitting expansion only in step with the taxpayers' ability or willingness to pay.

Further tax revenues, he explained, would be tied directly to the total personal income of the people.

Headlee claims this idea is much more realistic than the radical Jarvis proposal that is before voters in California. Under Jarvis' plan, property will be taxed on one percent of its assessed value, which many observers claim will spell doom for the largest state's schools and public services.

Headlee also rates the Taxpayers United proposal above the current Tennessee initiative that would place a lid on all state spending over the next several years.

Although the Michigan move would not lower taxes, its backers claim it would keep taxes from soaring out of sight in the future.

"We want something responsible, reasonable and respectable," Headlee said. "Our fundamental goal is to stabilize Michigan's governmental growth by changing the legislative processes and attitudes."

Of good news to Romulus residents, the proposal would also require local tax rates to be rolled back whenever property values (SEV) are increased more than the general cost of living.

Headlee claims broad-based support for the movement, naming retirees, housewives, farmers, professionals and more than 40 state legislators who have endorsed the proposal.

To add punch to his appeal, Headlee has sprinkled throughout his well-oiled presentation quotes from such luminaries as Thomas Jefferson, ("A government that governs least, governs best"), U-of-M economics professor Paul McCracken and Nobel Prize winner Milton Friedman.

For extra measure, he also throws in facts like: "The average taxpayer works until June 1 of every year, just to pay his taxes" and "Industry doesn't pay any taxes, it collects taxes by passing on any tax increase to you, the consumer."

Born in 1930 in Fort Dodge, Iowa, Headlee is president of Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co., which lists assets of nearly half a billion dollars. Under his leadership the company has risen to the top 100 in the nation (out of 1700 companies).

He is a devoted Mormon, who held the rank of bishop in the church hierarchy from 1972-1974. Voted the outstanding alumnus in 1964 of Utah State University, he presently holds several honorary positions and sits on the board of directors of Oakland University and Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

In his spare time, he has raised nine children, causing some people to comment it's no wonder he's working for a tax break.

He is a convincing speaker, who knows what he wants and how to get it. One indication of his prowess as a persuader was illustrated recently when after giving his presentation to Livonia city officials, the tax assessor immediately signed up as a member.

Fortunately, Richard Headlee is devoting his considerable energies to helping alleviate the tax burden suffered by Michigan residents.

Citizens who would like to become involved in this tax reform drive can obtain petitions at Romulus City Hall in the mayor's office.

League meet set

There will be an important meeting of the Romulus Men's Softball League at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Recreation Building at 3655 Bibbins St.

Players and managers are urgently needed for the men's adult (over age 35) league, according to Bob Martin, who is helping supervise the league.

More information may be obtained by calling the recreation department at 941-0666, ext. 67.

District shares state school aid payments

According to State Sen. William Faust (D-13th District), Western Wayne County school districts will be sharing in $16,288,406 in state school aid payments.

"It pleases me to announce these payments which school districts in the 13th State Senatorial District rely on for their day-to-day operation," Faust said. "These payments are just one more indication that state government in Michigan is working efficiently to assure that public education is provided throughout the state."

Faust noted that the April payment will be followed by similar state aid payments in August, October and December.

Included in the $16,288,406 aid money is $15,388,899 in direct state aid and $785,957 in Title I funds from the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. Also included is $113,550 from the Vocational Education Act of 1963.

The districts received:

- Lincoln Consolidated, $615,861

- in state aid and $77,561 in Title I funds.
- Romulus Community Schools, $520,022 in state aid, $59,719 in Title I funds and $33,224 in vocational education money.
- Wayne-Westland Community Schools, $3,303,460 in state aid, $116,044 in Title I funds and $31,064 in vocational education money.
- Huron Schools, $577,368 in state aid.
- Van Buren Public Schools, $674,362 in state aid and $22,561 in Title I funds.

Senior health screening set

Senior citizens in the Sumpter Township area will have an opportunity to take advantage of a special health screening project conducted by the Wayne County Department of Health and supported by a contract with the Detroit-Wayne County Area Agency on Aging.

The health screening will be done at the Sumpter Family Medical Center, 19130 Sumpter Road, May 1 through May 18. Seniors 60 years of age and older are eligible to participate in the screening program.

A health team consisting of a physician, social worker and registered nurses will provide a wide range of screening services, including a health history, height and weight measurement, blood pressure, temperature, pulse, respiration, pap smear, glaucoma, hearing and vision testing. Minor laboratory tests also will be done.

The goal of the health project is to assist senior citizens in gaining access to necessary medical care.

Persons interested should call the health department at 274-2800 or 729-2211, ext. 258, for an appointment.

Refund

Wayne County Commissioner Ed Harris, (D-26th District), whose area includes Romulus, presents checks to School Supt. James Garfield (left) and Mayor William M. Oakley as reimbursement for snow removal costs incurred during January's blizzard. The federal government compensated the school and city as part of a program that enabled the two entities to hire private contractors to help clear away the snow. (Photo by Jay Young, Romulus Public Information Office).

Chris Brown

Doug Brown: Makes own kind of music

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

She's has deep green eyes that smile out at you. Sandy blond hair and very pleasant to look at. She also plays the piano, but prefers the organ, "because it's more fun."

And the Browns sell pianos, organs, music books and sheets, and have made it possible for music fans to receive piano, organ, guitar lessons at their shop.

"I love playing the piano," says Mrs. Brown, "and whenever I find the time I sit at one of these, (pointing to an array of pianos and organs) and just play." She prefers playing "sacred music," "probably because when I was younger I was a church organist. In fact, so was Doug, my husband, but not at the same church."

The reader shouldn't be misled by the above quote. Mrs. Brown isn't "old", by any means. Unlike most women, she confesses her age - she's 25.

A New Boston Huron grad, Mrs. Brown was looking forward to a career in special education and attended both Western Michigan and Eastern Michigan universities, before she married Doug.

"But Doug is the real music lover," she insists. "And he's really the real salesman of this team. He's gregarious, loves people and loves to be interviewed by the news media."

"Unfortunately, he isn't available at present."

Doug Brown started in the selling music instruments six years ago at the present location.

He has a concentration of some of the finest pianos and organs in the country and also has the Lowrey line, the No.1 selling organ in the United States. The Lowrey people like to tell their fans that "you can play an organ with one finger," and that their brand is "the official organ at Disney World in Florida."

"The organ is much easier to play and it really is fun," said Chris. "It is very easy to get hooked on."

Strolling through the Doug Brown Music Shop one could find organs priced as high as $10,500 and before you scream, they also are priced at $1,295. Pianos will go for $1,550 and up.

Even at those prices, who buys them?

"Well," says Mrs. Brown. "I had an elderly lady in here the other day. And she told me she grew up during the Depression and always coveted a piano, however, because of the economic condition of her family, they couldn't afford one."

"But now that she has grown older and has the money, she said she was going to get one." And she did.

Then, of course, there are the families of today who want their children to have an opportunity to play. They may not have the money, so they set aside for the children's music lessons and earmark some of the budget for a piano or organ in the future.

"Really, what better form of education, relaxation or even investment will one find than an organ or piano," Mrs. Brown pointed out.

And, Mrs. Brown continued, a family that owns a piano or organ or plays some kind of instrument is one which values and respects life.

"People who love music aren't violent people," she says. "They are the Mozarts, the Beethovens, Chopins and Strausses - who are in tuned with life."

Yes, music and beauty go together.

Satelite lots could solve airport parking problems

Wayne County Commissioner Thomas Presnell of Westland has suggested that temporary satellite parking areas for air travelers be set up on public or private property during heavy travel periods at Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus.

Presnell said the recent parking situation at the airport was "horrendous" and has prompted him to ask the Board of Commissioners to explore "temporary parking arrangements" with the Wayne County Road Commission, the agency that runs the airport.

He said shuttle bus service could be arranged and cited the County General Hospital in Westland, the Warren Valley Golf Course in Dearborn Heights, and the Child Development Center in Northville as possible parking locations.

"I know that the Road Commission has plans to permanently increase the parking facilities at the airport — but I am not sure that the proposed parking will be ready in time or adequate to meet the growing number of people who are taking vacations during the Christmas-Easter holidays," Presnell said.

The airport presently offers 7,500 parking spaces, with space for an additional 1,000 cars planned for this summer. Two major private lots on Merriman Road offer additional space with shuttle service to the airport.

"This Easter the airport and the nearby private lots were jammed — even though airport officials opened up an additional 1,000 spots in the employee parking lot to the public," Presnell said. "People were calling up asking the county public information department where they could park."

Presnell added that airport suggestions that "people take public transportation, cabs, limousines or have someone drive them to the airport won't work for some travelers."

"Many travelers are senior citizens or families that have saved up enough for a low budget, charter vacation and would be hit hard by the additional expense of getting to and from the airport," he explained. "For example, it costs $40 roundtrip to go by cab from Harper Woods in the northeast corner of the county."

"What about travelers who live elsewhere in Michigan, perhaps as much as 150 miles away who must get their plane at Metro?" Presnell asked. "They must drive their cars to Detroit and have a secure place to park."

Presnell said budget trips often leave and arrive at odd hours and it can be difficult to "line up a family member or neighbor to drop you off and pick you up."

With airlines dropping rates and offering more attractive vacation packages, he expects travel to "grow by leaps and bounds."

His resolution asks that the county consider the possibility of "leasing some of its unoccupied land for a nominal fee to the Road Commission, but only during the heavy Christmas-Easter period."

"I'm thinking particularly about some space at the County General Hospital, the Warren Valley Golf Course, the Child Development Center or other county park property that wouldn't be in use during those weeks," he added.

Presnell also would like the discussions to include such possibilities as the Detroit Race Course in Livonia or the Michigan State Fairgrounds.

Motorists traveling to Detroit Metropolitan Airport should avoid westbound I-94 between Beech-Daly and Merriman roads now and both east-and westbound I-94 in that stretch beginning April 24. Automobile Club of Michigan predicts that delays of up to one hour could result during peak travel times because of a bridge resurfacing project which eventually will reduce traffic from three lanes to one both ways in that four-mile stretch. Motorists coming from Detroit's East Side can avoid the congestion by leaving westbound I-94 at Telegraph (M-24) and taking either Van Born or Ecorse roads or Michigan Avenue to southbound Merriman and following it to the airport. Residents of northern and western suburbs can choose between two routes — I-96 to southbound Telegraph, connecting with Merriman via Michigan, Van Born or Ecorse, and I-96 to southbound I-275, travelers from south and west of Detroit can take I-275 and eastbound I-94 to Merriman Road. After that date, they should exit I-94 south of Wayne Road and enter the airport via eastbound Goddard Road. The construction project is expected to last until mid-May.

Grants will pay winter-caused cost

Senior citizens and other low-income residents of Western Wayne County have until May 1 to apply for federal grants up to $250 to help meet winter-caused costs.

The federal payments are available through Communities United for Action Inc. (CUFA), the federally assisted, anti-poverty agency for the county area.

Persons who qualify are eligible for payments for such items as past unpaid utility bills, minor repairs related to energy conservation or storm damage and immediate needs like clothing and blankets.

To qualify, individuals or families must have annual incomes which do not exceed limits set by the U.S. Community Services Administration. They are for an individual, $3,712; a family of two, $4,912; a family of three, $6,112; a family of four, $7,312; family of five, $8,512; and family of six, $9,712. For larger families the income limit is $9,712, plus $960 for each additional member over six.

Families also may qualify on a basis of their income for the three months prior to their date of application. The three-month income limits are: For an individual, $928; family of two, $1,228; three, $1,528; four, $1,828; five, $2,128; six, $2,428; seven, $2,728; and eight, $3,028.

CUFA is offering another program in which its energy crews will repair minor house damage from winter and also will install energy-saving items such as weather-stripping, caulking, inside storm windows, insulation and door sweeps.

Preference will be given first to situations which endanger or threaten the life, health or safety of the applicants, according to program guidelines.

For further information on the programs, contact CUFA at 292-2110.

Home insurance: Do you have enough?

Last night a fire raged through your home. This morning your agent tells you the policy doesn't totally cover the contents in the house nor does it replace the burned out structure. Many home owners become aware of this fact after the fire, not before it, according to the Insurance Information Institute (III).

III urges home owners to beware. Because of inflation and rapidly increasing labor and materials costs, a home cannot be replaced totally unless enough insurance is carried.

You can prevent being underinsured by reviewing your homeowner's policy annually with your agent and discussing with him procedures and criteria in case of a future loss.

Homeowners' policies are available with a "replacement cost provision" that can help lower premiums while providing coverage for the total replacement of full or partial losses to property, says III.

To qualify for such a policy, the home owner must carry an amount of insurance equal to at least 80 percent of the home's actual replacement value.

The effect of the replacement clause can be illustrated as follows: Assume a $50,000 home is insured for $40,000 (or 80 percent of its replacement value). Under the replacement cost provision, if you have a $20,000 partial loss, insurance would pay the full $20,000 minus any deductible and depreciation of contents, and of the home, if applicable.

Insurance companies use another formula to pay for losses not covered under the replacement cost provision.

For example, if a $60,000 home had a partial loss of $45,000, but was insured for only $30,000 (50 percent, which is less than the 80 percent required under the replacement clause) the company could pay one of two ways (whichever was larger).

(1) It could take the amount of insurance carried ($30,000) divide it by the amount required under the replacement clause ($48,000) and multiply it by partial loss ($45,000) in this case paying $28,125.

(2) It could pay the owner the actual cash value of the loss, less depreciation, up to the policy limits—that is, the amount of insurance you actually are carrying.

However, some home owners are finding it difficult to insure older homes under the replacement cost provision because it would cost more to replace the home at today's prices for materials than the home is worth on the market.

For this reason, the Insurance Services Office (ISO), a national rating and statistical organization, has introduced to a new so-called Actual Cash Value policy (HO-8). Under HO-8 the policyholder pays for insurance based on the actual cash (market) value of his home, keeping his premiums at a lower rate.

One thing to remember: A policy never pays more than its limits, therefore if a $50,000 home is insured for only $40,000, the insurance company can only pay up to the policy limits: $40,000.

The homeowner would have to make up the rest of the loss himself, which serves as a good reminder to take advantage of the replacement cost provision, says III.

Rep. Mahalak says

Legislature works on CCW act

The Michigan Legislature has been giving attention recently to both antique guns and cars, according to State Rep. Edward Mahalak of the 38th District.

A bill passed by the House and sent to the senate would allow an unloaded antique firearm to be carried without a concealed weapons permit, the Western Wayne County Democrat said, adding that an unloaded antique gun does not pose the same threat as today's firearms, since the former are difficult and time-consuming to load.

"The bill would correct a loophole in the existing law which allows a person to carry around a concealed, loaded gun, simply because it is classed as an antique," Mahalak said.

He went on to say that the term antique refers to the type of firing system of the gun, rather than its actual date of manufacture. Therefore, a gun made this year would qualify as an antique firearm if it is an unaltered replica of a pre-1899 weapon which did not use rimfire or conventional center fire ignition with fixed ammunition. Mahalak added that firearms manufactured before 1899, which do use fixed ammunition are considered antiques, if the ammunition used is no longer manufactured in the United States and is not readily available commercially.

He went on to say that the antique car bill, recently signed into law, corrects a problem for vintage vehicle enthusiasts.

The State's Vehicle Code sets a number of requirements for horns, lights and mirrors, as well as other safety equipment. In order to meet those requirements, owners of historical vehicles had to make modifications which ruin the original design of the vehicle.

The new law amends the code to exempt from certain equipment standards vehicles licensed as historical vehicles, if the old car, as originally equipped, failed to meet those standards. Specifically, the exemptions would cover headlights, tail lights, brake lights, mirrors and windshields, Mahalak said.

In order to license a historic vehicle, a car must be at least 25 years old. Thus the new law does not pose a threat to traffic safety since only a few vehicles would be eligible for the exemption, Mahalak added, saying that historical vehicles most commonly are used on the highways in connection with old car club activities, exhibition tours and parades.

The Department of State has issued about 15,500 historical vehicle license plates since 1951. The plates are issued on a permanent basis, and the department estimates that only about 10,000 vehicles with those plates exist at the present time.

Of that number, only a small percentage probably are old enough to have been manufactured in a way which fails to meet equipment standards required by the Vehicle Code, Mahalak added.

Residents receive degrees from Central Michigan U.

Several area residents were among 760 students to be awarded degrees at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant at the end of the fall session in December.

Belleville-Romulus graduates included Debra K. Sommerville of Laurel Drive, Flat Rock, bachelor of science degree cum laude in business administration; and Carol McGinnis of Whitehorn, Romulus, bachelor of applied arts degree cum laude.

At that same university, the honors list has been posted for the winter semester. Name: to the listing were:

INKSTER — Terrance Calloway of Penn., Ellen Flavin of Sherbourne, and Betty Wilczynski of Sherbourne.

WAYNE — Mary Eldridge of Adams Circle and Shirley Havera of Williams Street.

WESTLAND — Sharon Schira of Hartel.

In other college news: At Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti there have been several staff promotions and appointments.

Darlene Crowley of Belleville was promoted to computer services assistant in University Computing from senior clerk in the personnel office; Pamela Kress of Belleville from clerk to secretary in the Campus Life Office; Cheryl Utter of Belleville from senior clerk to senior account clerk in the Housing Office; and Judith Neinas of Belleville from secretary II to administrative secretary in the Office of Continuing Education.

Newly appointed to the staff was Brenda S. Renfro of Belleville who is keypunch operator in University Computing.

At Wayne State University in Detroit, several area residents were awarded degrees during commencement ceremonies Dec. 6.

They were Gwendolyn Dudley of Denton Road, master of science degree; Brent Eggleston of Beechwood, Belleville, master of business administration degree; Jerree Martin of Village Green, Belleville; master of arts degree; Thomas Monaghan of Beckley, Belleville, bachelor of science degree; and Judith Sawicki of Tompkins, Belleville, master of arts degree.

Editorial opinions

The cause is right, but target wrong

Suppose your car breaks down and you have it towed into a repair shop. One of the two mechanics on duty goes to work on it and eventually makes the repairs.

Later, you get a bill for the services rendered that is way out of line. Which of the two mechanics do you go after? The one who did the work and billed you, or the one who simply watched the repairs being made, and did not benefit from the job.

Well, the answer is obvious. No reasonable human being would hold the mechanic who just watched responsible for the bill or the repairs. But in Romulus, a group of citizens has made the decision that someone in the community is going to pay and pay dearly for the recent tax reassessment, and the handiest guy in town happens to be the city assessor, David Krause.

While everyone is willing to concede that Krause had little, if anything to do with the reassessment, when it comes to getting a 'pound of flesh', Krause has become the target of angry residents.

We have stated in a number of recent editorials that we agree completely with the complaints coming from irate Romulus taxpayers, but do not agree with the group's decision to make Krause the sacrificial lamb who they apparently feel they need in order to unite the community behind its goal of tax reform.

We have said before, and we will say it again, the county was responsible for the recent tax reassessment.

We feel that the leaders of the tax revolt in Romulus are providing a disservice to the residents of the community.

There is one way, and only one, that the taxpayers of Romulus, or any other community, may achieve the tax reform they seek. That is through a change in the state law that essentially controls the machinery of city, county, and state taxation.

We feel that the Krause issue is simply a smoke screen to mislead the residents of the community into believing that the problem has been solved.

Removing Krause, the entire city council, and the mayor would not rectify the situation when the city leaders and department heads can do nothing more than stand by and simply watch, while the county mechanics work on the broken down vehicle called taxation.

Change the law or Gerald's must go

"A rose by any other name is still a rose", and a thief by any other name is still a thief, even if he or she happens to also be a member of the House of Representatives, but maybe not if you live in Michigan.

It is ironic that our Lansing lawmakers have invested so heavily in the rhetoric of returning the public trust to the business of politics, but have failed so miserably when it comes time to earning the respect of the citizens of this state who pay their salaries.

We understand, but do not necessarily accept, the reality of politics as practiced in Lansing. But, the case of Monti Gerald's, the 42-year-old convicted embezzler from Madison Heights, has strained the Legislature's credibility past the breaking point.

Two weeks ago, Gerald's was convicted by a jury of his peers, for embezzling $24,500 from one of his former law clients. He converted that client's money to his own use, and when discovered, was disbarred by the state Bar Grievance Board.

When Gerald's carried his case to the Michigan Supreme Court, that honorable body, true to its glorious past tradition of catering to influential state politicians, reduced the disbarment to a mere three-year suspension.

With that decision by the state's highest court, the ball was back in the legislators' court.

The lawmakers, realizing that the presence of a convicted embezzler within the hallowed halls of the Capitol building did not look too good to the folks back home, began their discussions on how to best deal with the problem.

True to its past record of making few, if any, decisions on important questions, especially if the question dealt with one of its members, the House of Representatives turned the matter over to the attorney general of Michigan.

Frank Kelly, the crusader against public utilities, was also true to his past record of devotion to Frank Kelly's political career, and returned to the house a classic legal opinion that deserves to be talked about for a good long time.

Kelly's opinion stated, "Where an embezzlement by a public official is unrelated to his public duties and involves private funds taken from a private person, the crime does not involve a breach of the public trust and a person convicted of such a crime is eligible to serve in the Legislature."

What in effect Kelly said was, that if an elected public official is convicted of stealing from the state, he may have to face removal proceedings, but if that elected official only steals from a citizen who is paying his salary, tough.

We think that the Monti Gerald's case is symptomatic of the problems facing Michigan.

When the time comes for the state to establish a set of dual standards of conduct, one for the residents of the state, and the other for the state's lawmakers, it is time for the citizens of this state to shine a light under the rocks in Lansing.

We do not feel that there can be any justification for the retention of Gerald's in his House seat.

We do not feel that there can be any separation of the standard of conduct between elected officials and the people of Michigan.

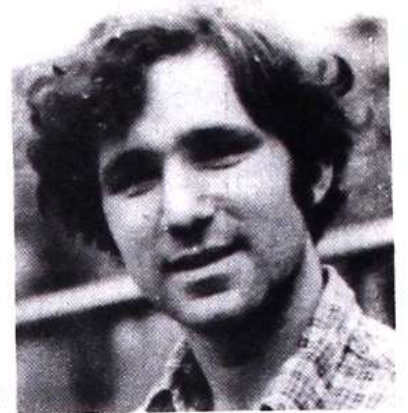

Gerald's was convicted of a felony by a jury in a court of law.

If the lawmakers in Lansing feel that embezzlement should not be grounds for censure, they should change the state's criminal code, and allow all of the citizens of the state to play the same game, not just one of their own.

Flowers for Algernon or What price freedom?

By DANIEL G. HELTON

Daniel Helton was born on Nov. 13, 1950 in Elgin, Ill. Reared in Riverview, Mich., he graduated from that high school in 1968 and from Northern Michigan University in 1972 with majors in political science and psychology.

He married Deborah Foster in 1972 and the couple had a daughter, Rachel, born in 1975. The Heltons lived in and around Marquette until Dec. 1976, "held there by a love of nature that the surrounding countryside kept satisfied and at times, it seemed, required."

A former record store and book store owner, Helton has also been a forest ranger and currently is employed as an agent of the National Labor Relations Board.

His strongest interests, he says, "are extended families, gardening and literature."

This letter is a response to the lead article of your April 5th edition.

The idea of banning books has always frightened me. Although I acknowledge the difference between the banning of a book from society at large and removing of a book from a public school curriculum, even the limited banning advocated by Mr. Griffith is, in my opinion, a serious and frightening matter.

I read Flowers For Algernon by Daniel Keyes twelve years ago, when I was in the 10th grade.

Since "The Enterprise" neglected an account of the book in its article, I believe such an account is appropriate at this time. If I remember correctly, Algernon is a rat whom scientists have injected with a drug which greatly increases its intelligence.

The pattern, after injection of the drug, is for the rat to gradually become capable of ever greater feats of intelligence until a peak is reached. Thereafter, the rat's intelligence begins an accelerating deterioration; the deterioration ends in death.

The story is told through the eyes of Charly who, at the book's beginning, is a feeble minded custodian at the laboratory at which the above-described experiments are being carried out. The format of the book is a series of letters written by Charly. In the hope of at least a few months of normal life, Charly convinces the scientists to inject him with the drug.

The pattern, as witnessed in Algernon and the other rats, is repeated in Charly. The book ends after Charly has nearly completed the cycle (becoming at its peak the most intelligent of humans) but before his inevitable death. As do most people during the course of their lives, Charly falls in love and develops a relationship with someone of the opposite sex.

The love scenes in the book are not gratuitous. In fact, Charly's relationship with the woman in the story is an important element of what is, perhaps, the book's central question: Were Charly's few months of intelligent, "normal" existence worth the quickened death which followed?

The preceding account is necessary because without knowledge of the book's content, a judgment of any kind concerning it is irrational. Flowers For Algernon raises several important questions about modern life that are particularly relevant to those readers who are approaching adulthood. To ignore the questions is not to solve their corresponding problems.

The finding of certain material to be objectionable is a personal and subjective judgment. One may, I suppose, find Flowers For Algernon objectionable on ethical, literary, moral or other grounds.

The determination that, for one reason or another, the book should not be presented to children of certain ages is within a person's rights to make. If that person wishes to alert other parents to the danger he or she has spotted, that, too, is both just and reasonable.

However, to deny another child the opportunity to study with others a book which seeks to impart knowledge and raise questions that are important considerations in a child of his or her age is to overstep those rights. Certainly, that individual may seek to have those questions raised to his or her child through alternative sources, and the teacher and school system should be receptive to such sensitivities, but the majority should be allowed to study that which they do not find objectionable and which the teacher, using his or her professional judgment, has determined to be best suited to impart the lesson at hand.

This does not mean that I advocate the admittance into curriculum of any material which a teacher or school system might conceivably opt should be intentionally imparted to anyone. I admit that, in certain grave circumstances, I may wish for the removal of some material from a school curriculum.

However, the banning of a book is an ominous undertaking; one not to be taken lightly or in ignorance of the material. To look to particular words or pages in making the determination is a serious error. By the standards established by Mr. Griffith for Flowers For Algernon the books of the bible "Ruth" and "The Song of Solomon" would also be restricted reading; much if not all of Shakespeare would be condemned.

Once begun, where does it end?

If one does find it necessary to question the admittance of some material into a school's curriculum, the question that must be asked is this: What does the material, in its total context, seek to impart or is reasonably likely to impart to the intended reader?

If one decides that the material being considered is so repugnant in effect that its forced removal justifies the dangers inherent in taking such action, then one should proceed accordingly. However, one must be fully cognizant of the logical implications of his actions. To do otherwise is dangerous policy.

Finally, "The Enterprise" must itself be taken to task for its coverage of the story.

The article was placed on the front page, without notation to indicate that it expressed opinion rather than presented news. The paper apparently made no effort to contact the teacher involved or other school officials to solicit their views or to delve deeper into the disputed book than the five pages which were presented to it by Mr. Griffith.

In other words, the paper presented an opinionated article from a position of ignorance under the guise of objective reporting. For an individual to act in such a way is folly; for a newspaper it is an irresponsible use of its communicative function.

(Editor's note: The Enterprise tried to objectively cover the story of 168 people, including 10 ministers, who objected to "Flowers For Algernon" as suitable reading for high school students. It was not felt that a detailed book review was necessary.)

Editor's Log

'I really can catch good'

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

The notice arrived in the mail, just as it had so many times in the past, announcing the registration date for Little League Baseball tryouts. But this time, things would be different.

As the father of three boys and a bouncing, pig-tailed little girl, I have come to accept the encroachment on my personal time that Little League imposes. Usually, in spite of a brother's clause (a pronouncement by the league that brothers would be allowed to play on the same team), I have faced the problem of finding all three of my boys on different teams, playing and practicing at different fields and times.

In the past, mom and I have shared the responsibility of admiring our ballplayers during their games, even though this left little time for us to admire each other.

If Scott, age 11, was playing at Madison School, 14-year-old Mark was playing at Adams, and 15-year-old Dennis was at Henry Ruff. Fortunately for us, but unfortunately for her, 9-year-old Jennifer, usually found herself playing in the sand pile behind one of the field's backstops.

Now it looks like all of that will be changed.

When the notice first arrived, it was received as usual, complaints that baseball officials did not really have to wait until the snow was gone before starting the programs, reliving all of the brilliant plays of last year, and much sympathetic conversation about all of the calls that the umpires had blown.

It was just too much for Jennifer.

"I think that I will play baseball this season too," she exclaimed.

Taken aback by the statement emanating from her 4-foot frame, I stammered that I didn't think the Little League program had a girls' league.

"Here it is right here dad," she said, reading from the recently received sheet.

"Tryouts, and registration will be held the same days as for the boys. A girl in my class has already signed up for baseball, and another girl is going to play in this league," she said.

"Okay," I said, "but maybe you should talk your your brothers into giving you a few pointers on the game."

Wiping the peanut butter off of her nose, she said, "I don't think I'm really very good. I hope that they let me play."

Forgetting for a moment that I would now have to be in four different places at four different times if 'J' decided to pursue her baseball ambitions, I said, "If you want to play baseball, you will play ball. No one is going to tell my little girl that she isn't good enough to make the team."

"Oh dad," she said, "I don't even know what position I want to play. Maybe I should play a base, but I don't know how to catch very good."

"You will do just fine," I said, as I reclined in my easy chair and started glancing through the daily newspaper.

The temperature was hovering around the 45-degree mark when I drove into the driveway the following day. Attracted by the howling and laughter, I walked around the garage and found the family ball team assembled. Apparently the decision had been made by the men in the family that it was time for 'J' to learn the ins and outs of baseball.

Pigtail bouncing, 'J' was shagging ground balls off the bat of her older brother Dennis. She was backed up in this effort by brothers Mark and Scott, and all three of them were giving her the benefit of their vast knowledge of the game.

Realizing the significance of the event, I called my wife Fran. "Do you realize what we are witnessing?" I asked. "It has been years since the four kids had been within 50 feet of each other and were not fighting."

"The coach of 'J's' ball team called today", Fran said, "and just guess the name of the team she has been assigned to? The miracles!"

"Now that is appropriate", I said. "What we have just witnessed is indeed a miracle. Maybe Little League Baseball is worth the considerable investment we have to make in it."

Just then, 'J' had made a nice catch of a bouncing ground ball and had hurled the projectile in the direction of the piece of plywood that represented first base.

"Dad, Dad," 'J' screamed, "I really can catch pretty good."

To the Editor:

The voters in the Van Buren School District are faced with the most important school millage election that I can recall in my 22 years in the district.

Proposition I is a renewal proposal which will not raise taxes and Proposition II is a request for new millage. These are essential if we are going to try to have an average school system. Three other proposals offer opportunities to upgrade our system and one proposal offers an opportunity to protect our present investment in buildings by starting a systematic method of repair and maintenance which is long overdue.

I have been attending meetings of the school board and the Van Buren School District Advisory Council and am aware of a variety of concerns that people have regarding our schools.

Citizen involvement and support are the only solutions for our present situation. Opportunities for involvement are numerous; attend board meetings, work with the advisory council, become active in your school's parent organizations. Your involvement is especially important in two areas: selection of three school board members and a new superintendent this Spring.

Your support is critical on April 24 so that the board members you elect and the new superintendent have an opportunity to respond to your concerns.

Representative government

By BOB AMEEN

Nothing in this world is perfect. As good as our national form of government is, it still has shortcomings which over the years cry for modification. One fault which has earned the criticism of almost every American at one time or another is the pushing of specific issues by elected officials which run at cross purposes to how their constituents feel. Examples which stand out are the Vietnam War and the Panama Canal treaties. Polls taken across the nation showed that the vast majority of citizens were against the Vietnam War and wanted it stopped, and that they favored keeping the canal for ourselves. Yet, our nation's elected leaders plod on, following the same course, pulling in the opposite direction and evidently expecting the American public to like it or lump it! Although critics of this type of action are told that when election time comes, these politicians can be voted out of office, it would seem that corrective legislation could be enacted to take care of such situations. When election time does come, perhaps the candidates who are running against the person who the public would like to dump, are a worse lot than he is. So, that course of action leaves something to be desired. Instead, it would make more sense to have our forms of local, state and national governments to incorporate built-in mechanisms that would correct such differences. Suppose, for example, that a U. S. senator has a specific issue that directly affects his area of representation, but that the electorate in his district is vehemently opposed. Or, the situation could be vice versa. In any event, if the law specifically stated that the electorate could petition to hold an election to determine public opinion on the issue in question, it would go a long way to resolving the matter. If such an election found that the senator's constituents were in direct opposition to his views, he would then be bound by law to vote in Congress to reflect their feelings. Surely, in this land of freedoms and opportunity, such legislation or something similar, could be enacted to give the American people the feeling that how they think does make a difference in the scheme of things. If it is publicized all over the world that our American people have a voice in the operation of their local, state and national governments, then give them that voice literally. For our elected officials, especially on the national level, to consistently vote on issues in direct contradiction to the feelings of their constituents, can only contribute to unrest and unhappiness in our nation's future.

On the Brighter Side

Whatever happened to boy writers?

By JIM BRADLEY

Newspaper writing is a unique profession. This has been a recognized fact through the years and stories of newspaper reporters are too numerous (and too notorious) to mention. But all that seems to be changing. Before, in the early days of journalism, many newspaper editors and writers were regarded as degenerate or, at least, less than ethical in their gathering of news. Some of the best stories came from the stolen files of a prominent individual or from a tip-off man spying on certain elected officials. In addition, often some of the most salacious stories were hatched around a bar room table at the midnight hour. Reporters were known to be heavy drinkers, hopping from bar to bar in search of a "scoop". One of the best known stories concerns Mark Hellinger, who for years covered the night club and late-hour "beat" in New York City. After he passed away, one writer suggested to the editor that several reporters be given a chance at the job of covering the night clubs for late-night news stories. The gruff editor, knowing full well the dangers of the "watering holes" with their midnight madness, growled, "No Sir! We'll assign one person to the beat. Let's only ruin one person at a time!" All this came to mind when I got a phone call the other day from a top Wayne County official who called and invited me to lunch in Detroit. "There's only one problem," he admitted, in offering the invitation. "I don't drink and there aren't many restaurants you can go to that doesn't serve alcohol." Sensing that I had come upon a rare breed, I quickly countered that I didn't drink either and had a great distaste for going into bars. "Good," he replied, "We'll get together soon." It's kind of unusual, I guess, but in the seven or eight years I've been toiling as a reporter on four different newspapers, I've never had to enter a bar to get a story. And that makes me very happy. Although, I will admit that not too many big stories break over a bottle of red pop. Another changing face in the newspaper business is the growing number of females entering the reporting field. But I don't mind that one bit. They're certainly much prettier than many of the craggy-faced veteran male reporters I've labored with to meet impending deadlines late at night. I've scanned several high school newspapers lately and the girls seem to dominate the roster of reporters and editors. Now, I have nothing against girl writers, I just hate to see boy writers "fade away." Since my wife and I have three sons — it looks like we're trying to reverse the trend. (Now if they only learn to read and write). Yes, newspaper work is steadily changing. Means of gathering news have become more respectable and it looks like the gals are taking over. When I go home tonight for supper, I think I'll ask my three sons, "Is there a reporter in the house?" I know we'll have a budding journalist in the family if he hands me a cold red pop to share as he gives me his answer.

'Involved citizen' nominations sought

We, like most organizations and interested citizens, are often guilty of overlooking the positive while in 'hot pursuit' of the negative. In an effort toward correcting this understandable, but poor characteristic of the human race, Associated Newspapers would like to reserve a portion of this page for recognizing the outstanding contributions of people within our circulation areas. In the coming weeks we hope to provide readers with a look at the accomplishments of their neighbors and friends. The person that we select for recognition, need not be an elected official or business leader. In our daily lives we often encounter people who have provided their communities with a part of themselves on a regular basis without any thought of self reward. Those are the people that Associated would salute for community involvement. We invite our readers to send us their nominations for Involved Citizen of the Month. It is not often that we find someone who is willing to work for nothing more than a pat on the back. We should be able to at least supply the pat. Associated Newspapers is committed to community involvement. We believe there is no other way to insure that the cities and townships that we may call home, will survive. Working together we can build a better community.

Health Beat

Gone but not completely

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

Not too long ago, possibly three weeks or so, I read an obit in one of the Detroit daily newspapers. Now of course, there is nothing unusual about a newspaper running a last piece about somebody; indeed, it's a daily event. Yet, I objected to the cavalier fashion in which this particular obit was published. The person involved was named Bill Kenny, and he expired at age 63 in New Westminster, British Columbia. The obit which is the object of my ire was published in Section B; only one-column wide and two-inches deep. What's my objection? Simply this. Bill Kenny was the last surviving member of a singing group whose name was a household word from 1939 to the early 1950's. Kenny sang lead tenor. If the ever heard him and the group sing "Paper Doll", you will immediately recognize the name of the group: the Ink Spots. Now it just seems to me that a person who held the esteem and respect of so many pop music lovers for so long ought to be accorded just a little more than a short squib buried in the second section of a newspaper. I do not for a moment suggest that the tasteless and shabby excesses which surrounded the funeral of Elvis Presley's funeral be likewise applied to Bill Kenny. Indeed, I'm sure that had it been possible, Presley would have personally put an immediate and abrupt halt to the outrageous exploitation of his death. But must we forget Kenny completely? What I want to do in this column is write about another musician who died several years ago; a musician whose passing went about as unrecognized as did Bill Kenny's.

You won't find his name in too many books, and unless you are an aficionado of an art form known as Dixieland Jazz, his name won't be familiar to you. He fronted a typical Dixieland band; himself on cornet, a clarinetist, trombonist, drummer, piano, and string bass. His name, incidentally, was 'Muggsy' Spanier. In the very early 1950's, there was still room for traveling bands such as Muggsy's, although the esoteric nature of his music didn't always draw the big money spenders that club owners needed to provide decent paydays. One night, it was a Monday in 1951, Muggsy was booked into a club just outside of Denver in the small town of Arvada, Colorado. The club was named the Zanibar and the owner was trying to keep Dixieland alive by bringing in bands like the one Muggsy had organized. On this particular Monday night, the house was empty except for two young GI's who had the best table available. It's hard for musicians to perform for empty tables, but Muggsy's band was blowing its best for the obviously appreciative GI's. At the end of each session, they'd clap and cheer — their ovation sometimes seemed to mock them in the empty room. It was break time. Evidently in appreciation, the entire band came over to the GI's, introduced themselves, and sat down for a libation or two. It was a thrill beyond description. Both of the GI's had been somewhat active with bands in civilian life, and the chance to meet and talk with some of the giants of Dixieland almost seemed like a dream come true. As the night wore on a few more customers entered the club, Muggsy continued to direct the band's efforts toward the enjoyment of the two GI's. At the last break, he came back to their table and gave them four passes for the Saturday night show. They showed up Saturday night, and were escorted — with two Belles from Denver on their arms — to the same front table they had occupied on the disastrous Monday night. But this time the house was jammed. A good band responds to the mood of a crowd, and the music was superb. Then after a song, Muggsy stopped and went to the microphone. He introduced the two GI's as "...my very good friends from Michigan and Pennsylvania..." The Denver Belles were properly impressed and the crowd acknowledged the presence of Muggsy's friends. Next came the blockbuster. Muggsy asked the two men to come up and sit in for a couple of songs. Though both were rusty, it was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. The Pennsylvania GI picked up the string bass, and the Michigan GI sat down at the drums. Both had played these instruments as civilians. They went through four classics: Muskrat Ramble, Tin Roof Blues, Rampart Street Parade, and Sweet Georgia Brown. The thrill remains to this day. Two GI's, over a thousand miles from home, sitting in with one of the true legends of jazz. As we wrote earlier, Muggsy's death was noticed by only a few; but but the drummer from Michigan will never forget him, and I'm sure the bass player from Pennsylvania harbors the same exciting memory. We wish God's peace for all those who have passed our way and made our lives a little happier and pray we never forget those wonderful people.

Charismatics revive past practice

This Sunday's gospel is from John 14:1-12. In verse 12 Jesus says: "He who has faith in me will do what I am doing; and he will do greater things still because I am going to the Father."

What of this promise that we who have faith in Jesus will do greater things even than he? Is that promise for real? It hardly seems so. Most of the time the church, the community of Christian believers, has demonstrated no such power. Yet our lack of power was disturbing and embarrassing.

In Mark's gospel, 16:17-18, we are told to proclaim the Good News to all creation, and "Faith will bring with it these miracles: believers will cast out devils in my name and speak in strange tongues; if they handle snakes or drink any deadly poison, they will come to no harm; and the sick on whom they lay their hands will recover." How could we fault people for not believing our gospel of Jesus if we did not accompany it with the signs he himself promised?

It was this discrepancy between God's plan and the reality of life in the church which prompted some Christians in the Catholic Church to search further than traditional church practices and expectations for the promised power of the Holy Spirit. And so was born charismatic renewal within the Catholic Church.

The search has led us to greater appreciation of the presence of the Holy Spirit in Protestant and Orthodox communities of the church, and a greater appreciation of the spiritual riches of our own heritage embodied in the lives of the saints and devout communities.

Essentially, the search has led us deeper into the Christian life in the Lord Jesus. We have found nothing really new or different from the values and riches contained in the scriptures and accepted by the church.

As people rediscovering an old masterpiece of art, we had to clean off the dirt and scuffs acquired in centuries of disuse and abuse. Sometimes, like professional restorers, we have had to remove a whole other picture painted over the masterpiece.

The modern painting may have even been attractive, but it has to be removed, if the masterpiece is to become evident. Removal of surface additions is a delicate task, lest the original be damaged. We are under no delusion that the restoration and renewal is yet complete. Given our sinful human condition, we will never finish on this earth where distortions continue to occur.

The analogy of restoring a masterpiece is, of course, imperfect. The Holy Spirit also develops and improves the church over time. In our restoration we must be able to discern the difference between genuine development by the Holy Spirit, and additions imposed by misguided people. Renewal of Jesus' church is no task for a careless hack.

The means or vehicles of this restoration and renewal in the life of faith is dependence on the word of God. The word of God to use is discovered in prayer, in all the scriptures, and in the authentic faith-consciousness of Christian people as described by the teaching of the church. These three resources are essential to avoid self-deception and missing the word of God.

What are the lines and colors of the renewed masterpiece? First is complete conversion to Jesus as our lord and savior, as the messiah and son of God. This step in faith is basic and opens a person to the saving grace of God.

Complete conversion to Jesus opens a person wide to the onrush of the Holy Spirit, sometimes called rebirth or baptism in the Holy Spirit.

Following the insight of Jesus to love God and our neighbors as ourselves leads us to form an intimate community of brothers and sisters praising the Lord and caring lovingly for each other's needs. This community is localized in the celebration of the Eucharist and extends to embrace all the church to whom we relate as organs in a body.

Awareness of the Holy Spirit leads to recognition of alien evil spirits sometimes afflicting us, and hence the need in some cases for deliverance. We also recognize how our feelings and subconscious mind, which influence our present behavior, have been hurt by the sins of ourselves and others, and hence the need for healing and forgiveness.

As we are restored we discover our charisms, or God-given talents, for the service of others in the community. Each person has his or her particular talent to contribute to the whole community, and we are all deprived, if anyone fails to contribute his or her talent.

All this and much more. More information is available through our church and prayer group. In all things, let us proclaim: Jesus Christ is Lord!

Cloning: We need to know information

More information should be made public on the subject of cloning. Scientists seem to feel that ignorance is bliss for the average person. Experiments in many fields are conducted in near secrecy. But without understanding of what actually is taking place in the field of cloning, we are left with only our imaginations to fill in the void when data is not readily available.

Let's pretend for a moment...

It is the year 2010. When private health insurance companies collapsed in the 1980s, the government, out of necessity, introduced insurance reform that made good medical care obtainable for all citizens. Because of this, the population of the world has increased rapidly. The average life expectancy is now 102 years.

Five years ago cloning became a perfected science, but the cost of a clone is astronomical. Once again longevity depends on a person's wealth.

Edward, a 70 year old middle-aged millionaire, has just been told by his doctor that his liver must be replaced at once. He enters the university hospital in the morning for what is now considered routine surgery. He and his clone are prepped for the operation. By evening Edward is ready to be discharged. He is given a perfect bill of health, thanks to the transplant made possible by owning a clone.

Because of the large crowd that has been gathering all day at the front gate of the university, body guards have been called in to whisk Edward out the back door. A demonstration has been going on which, although still peaceful, has the police worried. The people are here to protest the inequality of cloning. "Prolonged life," they argue, "should not bear a price tag. The clones should be shared equally among all the people."

As the car in which Edward is riding sneaks off into the night, a rock shatters a first floor window of the university. The crowd presses forward. The demonstration is no longer peaceful.

A far fetched story of course. One conceived with a complete lack of knowledge of cloning, the exception being a few short newspaper articles I have read on the subject. However, scientists, by their very nature, will not be satisfied with the cloning of a frog, as has been reported. The cloning of a human being will some day take place. (If it has not already, as one writer claims.)

The chance of this happening brings up unlimited issues that must be resolved. By cloning, are we playing God? If the clones are to be carbon copies of human beings, will we have the right to sacrifice their lives for our own? Who will be responsible for these clones? If most scientists are atheists, how will they feel we differ from the clones, for is it not our souls that set us apart from other animals? Will there be a cloning bank available to all, or will a price tag, out of reach for the average person, be put on the various parts? Will shopping for body replacements someday be similar to buying meat in the market? Will they be marked U.S. Grade A, etc.?

It is a fascinating subject. Maybe, within the next few years, the scientists now working on perfecting a clone, will be willing to share their progress with an interested public.

History a new way

Is there a new approach to the study of American History? Wayne County Community College instructor Daniel Droz thinks so, and will be offering "Patterns of American Life: A Cultural History of 17-19th Century America" beginning May 4.

The new course, initiated for WC3's upcoming spring term registration, will attempt to tap local resources of museums and historical collections to illustrate its particular topics of study.

"We think that his approach will take the study of famous events, movements and lifestyles in American history a step further by utilizing the 'living record' of Americana now available to us," Droz said. "Instead of staying merely within the confines of textbooks, students in this course will be able to absorb their history by observing it in a number of ways, chief among them through the actual artifacts."

"Patterns of American Life" will utilize the combined collections of the Henry Ford Museum, Greenfield Village, the Detroit Historical Museum and the "Your Heritage House" for field-study "classroom" experiences. In such a unique way cultural aspects observed beyond the traditional classroom setting will enable students to approach history in more concrete terms.

Such areas as industrial and agricultural technology, the crafts, architecture, transportation and homearts will be taught, all through a mixture of audio, visual and tactile media approaches.

"Patterns of American Life: A Cultural History of 17th-19th Century America" will meet from 2 to 6 p.m. Wednesdays, beginning May 4 for 12 weeks.

Further information concerning content or registration for "Patterns of American Life" may be made to the Wayne County Community College Admissions Office at 832-1234.

Receives tribute

Fr. Walter E. Burke, chaplain at Wayne County General Hospital in Westland, has received a resolution of tribute from the Michigan State House of Representatives. The resolution, sponsored by Morris W. Hood Jr., Bobby D. Crim, Joseph F. Young, Barbara-Rose Collins, Dominic Jacobetti, James E. O'Neill, Rosetta Ferguson, Lucille McCollough and Raymond W. Hood, was given to Fr. Burke for his "tremendous effort" in saving the Walter P. Reuther Long Term Care Facility at the county hospital. Fr. Burke, a chaplain at the hospital for 11 years, decided to act when he learned funding for the facility was to be discontinued. He brought the matter to the attention to the news media and to the State Legislature and succeeded in obtaining temporary state funding. The House of Representatives resolved the accolade of praise and commendation be accorded to Fr. Burke for his effort in saving the Walter P. Reuther Center.

State Bar backs ERA

The Board of Commissioners of the State Bar of Michigan has voted to endorse the Equal Rights Amendment.

"Although the Michigan Legislature ratified ERA in May 1972, several attempts have since been made to rescind ratification," State Bar President Joseph L. Hardig Jr. said. "A resolution introduced in the Senate last year currently is before the Senate Judiciary Committee. The amendment reflects a human rights position that we strongly endorse.

"With efforts to pass ERA now entering a critical stage, we feel that it is extremely important for supporters of that position to reaffirm their support."

The Board of Commissioners is elected by the 16,000 lawyers who make up the State Bar of Michigan.

HAROLD REDISKE JR.

When should funerals be planned in advance?

The most direct answer I can give would be "as soon as you're ready and able to do so", but of course this "readiness" and "able-ness" is primarily a matter of one's state of mind, not just physical being. The following poem (author unknown), makes a worthy statement.

Tarry not, to put your life
Set aright, make amends before you cross life's border.

Since no one can say with certainty when the time of death is to come, the knowledge of being prepared is comforting.

With your comfort and peace of mind, and that of your loved ones uppermost in our planning, we suggest preparedness in your daily affairs. We also encourage you to demonstrate your foresight in pre-planning your funeral, sparing your family this task. By doing so, you are assured that your wishes will be made known and followed; that the services will be no less and the costs no more than you want them to be.

With mandatory sentences

Bills would curb sex crimes against children

A two-bill package designed to curb the incidence of sexual crimes against children was introduced last week in the Senate by State Sen. David A. Plawecki, (D-Dearborn Heights).

In addition to a tough, mandatory prison term for convicted child molesters, the legislation provides for jail sentences, psychiatric evaluation, and treatment for individuals who suggest or entice a child to perform criminal sexual acts.

"The primary concern," said Plawecki, "should be to protect our young children from harm."

"By imposing stiff, mandatory jail sentences, hopefully we can deter these offenders from committing sex crimes against children," he said.

According to terms of the first measure, a child molester convicted of first-degree criminal sexual assault with a minor would serve a mandatory prison term of at least 10 years. That provision, noted Plawecki, was developed in conjunction with a Taylor citizens' group organized by Mrs. Shelley Emmons to stop the incidence of sexual assault on children. The group is circulating petitions in the downriver area in an effort to help ensure passage of the 10 year mandatory sentencing bill.

"In addition to the concept of mandatory sentences," said Plawecki, "there is evidence to indicate that psychiatric treatment is essential if we are to effectively stop these criminal acts."

"Because police and mental health experts tend to agree that child molesters are often seriously disturbed mentally, court-ordered psychiatric evaluation and treatment is a key feature of this legislation," said Plawecki.

The clinical term for the disease — pedophilia — means an abnormal desire in adults for sexual relations with children. Individuals afflicted with the disease come from every economic strata, say experts, but recent cases tend to indicate a growing incidence of sexual aberration among educated and higher income offenders.

Under the provisions of the second measure, anyone who suggests, accosts, entices, or solicits a child less than 16 years of age to submit to sexual conduct would be subject to a jail term of up to two years, instead of the current one year prescribed sentence. Subsequent offenders would be guilty of a felony, punishable by imprisonment for up to 10 years, a fine of up to $5 thousand, or both.

In assessing the penalty, the bill would authorize the sentencing judge to order a psychiatric evaluation of the offender. The evaluation would have to include at least 15 hours of examination within the first 45 days from sentencing. Upon completion of the evaluation and after a hearing for the offender, the judge could prescribe further treatment as part of the penalty.

Strangers when we meet

Michigan State Police Trooper Robert Brandt, community relations officer for the Ypsilanti Post, has been visiting some of the Van Buren Public Schools elementary classes of students in kindergarten through sixth grade. His purpose is to present a program to youngsters on how they should react to strangers.

Favorite flower of spring

The brightly colored, velvety, pouch-shaped blossoms of the pocketbook plant (Calceolaria her-beyhybrida) make it a favorite flowering pot plant for spring.

Michigan State University horticulturists suggest you can extend its blooming period to the maximum by giving it bright, indirect light (no direct sun) and cool temperatures. Place it where the night temperature is 40-45 degrees for best keeping quality.

Water whenever the soil surface feels dry to keep the soil around the roots uniformly moist. Do not let the soil dry out between waterings.

The Calceolaria is a tender perennial, but it usually is treated as an annual and discarded after flowering. You can save the seeds and plant them in July or August.

It usually is difficult to bring these plants to flower in the home, however, because they require 2½ to four months of cool temperatures — 55-60 degrees at night and 65-70 degrees during the day — and bright light from late fall through early spring.

Insect pests are not a major problem with these plants.

Dingman joins group

Dingman Electric Supply Inc. of East Huron River Drive, Belleville, has been elected to membership in the National Association of Electrical Distributors, with Perry Dingman, vice-president, named as the association delegate.

Founded three years ago by Stuart Dingman, the firm already has gained wide acceptance in Monroe, Washtenaw and Wayne counties.

Keenly aware of its community responsibility, Dingman Electric supports such projects as Junior Achievement, the Little League and the local horse clubs. In addition, they are members of the Chamber of Commerce of both Belleville and Ypsilanti.

The National Association of Electrical Distributors is the only national trade association of electrical wholesalers in the country. Its member outlets, located throughout the United States and Puerto Rico, now total 1,856.

CPR classes set in Wayne

Wayne Post 111 of the American Legion will sponsor cardiopulmonary resuscitation instruction (CPR) at 7 p.m. April 26 at the Post Hall, 4422 S. Wayne Road, Wayne.

CPR is a possible way of saving the life of a heart attack victim. A class of 15 is planned for each instructor.

Refreshments will be served, and there will be no charge for the instruction.

Country-western concert set in Westland

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer
Two award-winning country-western groups will perform next month in Westland for the benefit of the Westland Firefighters Benevolent Association.

Danny Davis and The Nashville Brass and The Jim Ed Brown Show will give concerts at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Sunday, May 14, at Westland Arena, Wildwood at Hunter, one-half mile north of Ford Rd., Westland.

Co-sponsored by the Westland Firefighters and CKLW-FM-94, the country music spectacular will cost $5 per ticket, which are available at J.L. Hudson's and all Westland fire stations.

Davis's group, who records for RCA label, was the first to blend the sound of country songs with the big band sound. However, Davis's background as a trumpet singer and singer in some of the big name bands gave him the assurance that horns would be well received.

In 1968, The Nashville Brass, which consists of Davis and eight other musicians, started amidst the doubts of many country-western music lovers. But the sound of the Brass is perky, vibrant and big-band. Some who don't like country music love the Brass sound.

The Brass' sound is produced by drums, guitars, a banjo, two trombones, and two brassy trumpets. It was as a record producer in Nashville that Davis discovered the most consistently lucrative area of the music business was the country field.

Last year his group did 324 concerts, nearly one a day.

Jim Ed Brown is among the top singers in country music and has won numerous awards as well as selling large numbers of records with his smooth voice.

Accompanying Brown will be pretty vocalist Helen Cornelius, who has vibrant tones of her own, and five musicians. In much demand at fairs and concerts around the country, Brown is kept busy traveling the width and breadth of the nation. His supporters span a wide range of age and background.

Benefits from the two concerts will go to help the Westland Firefighters Benevolent Association by helping injured firefighters, as well as other worthy causes selected by them.

Of delivering fuels

Double bottoms' ban would increase costs

A state ban of double-bottomed (tandem) tankers would add $37 million to the cost of transporting gasoline from refinery to service stations, according to a study by the Michigan Petroleum Association.

The study was prompted by a package of bills presently under consideration in the State Legislature. If passed, the bills would ban the use of double bottoms for hauling gasoline and would restrict gasoline deliveries to 9,000-gallon loads in single-trailer tankers.

"Such a ban is not in the best interests of the people of the state, both in terms of highway safety and simple economics," said Charles Gallup of Ann Arbor, president of the association.

Outlawing double-bottom tankers and the subsequent 9,000-gallon limit on payloads would increase delivery costs by as much as 65 percent, he added.

"This would result in a minimum of $37 million per year in additional energy costs to the consumer, Gallup said. "A statewide fleet of approximately 675 tanker vehicles presently transport seven billion gallons of gasoline and fuel oil to consumers annually in Michigan. More than half of these vehicles are double-bottoms.

"To ban the use of that large a portion of our state-wide fleet is extremely unwise.

"For one thing, it would necessitate a significant increase in the actual number of tankers required to transport gasoline and fuel oil. The presence of more vehicles on the highways, each traveling more miles because of smaller payloads, inevitably will increase the risk factor while at the same time causing prices to go up at the pump."

The study revealed that double-bottoms have a substantially lower accident rate than single-trailer units. During the 2-year period 1975-76, singles experienced 12 accidents per 10 million miles traveled while doubles had less than eight accidents per 10 million miles traveled.

During that same period, double-bottoms accounted for the delivery of 9.2 billion gallons of gasoline and fuel oil while singles were able to deliver only 4.5 billion gallons. On that basis, the doubles were responsible for half as many accidents - per billion gallons delivered - as the singles.

For the two years, doubles traveled 68 million miles on Michigan highways, singles 61 million miles.

The study also showed that the singles had a higher fatality rate - on a per gallon delivered basis. In that context, singles had a 77 percent higher fatality rate than doubles.

Other facts revealed by the study: -The singles had a 291 percent higher personal injury rate and a 373 percent higher property damage rate. The latter statistics also were based on a per gallon-delivered calculation.

Since 1975, there have been seven fatalities resulting from accidents involving double-bottom tankers and six deaths caused by singles.

Gallup also pointed out that a state-wide ban of double-bottom tankers would cause "a much higher accident-exposure rate on Michigan's highways because of the increased number of delivery trips required to meet consumer demand while using only 9,000-gallon capacity vehicles."

Yoga, anyone?

The course will be offered again May 8 through June 19 at Milton Middle School in Inkster. A preview session is planned for May 1 from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Registration for the class can be completed at that time. The first class will be held in the college's Garfield Building. For further information about that class or others scheduled for the spring session contact the college at 832-4750.

Ford films featured

Henry Ford - Model T baron, mechanic and billionaire - was also a filmmaker. These films, produced and distributed by his company from 1917 to 1920, form the basis of a 60-minute TV biography, "Road to Happiness," about the life and times of Ford. The documentary can be seen May 3 at 8 p.m. on Channel 56 as a part of "Nova", the national public television weekly science documentary series.

Known as the man who gave American the Model T, Ford also gave Americans history on film in the form of newreels; "educational weeklies" on such topics as "Electricity on the Farm" and "How Ford Makes 1,000 Cars A Day" (a film of the first moving assembly line); and dramas, many of which reflected Ford's personal views.

An example of the Ford philosophy on film is one of his earliest, "The Road to Happiness" (from which the documentary title is taken). In this film, a hero wins an essay contest about the need for good roads, gains an education, wins the girl he loves and goes on to pave the roads of his community.

Throughout the early part of this century, Ford distributed his films to theaters and Ford dealerships across the country and, in 1918, was the largest motion picture distributor in the world.

"Nova: Road to Happiness" gives the public a view, once again, of the Ford Film Collection which is now a part of the National Archives. But this time, the films are edited into a unique documentary which tells the entire Ford story - examining his concepts on business, labor, mechanization and technology which made his story so much a part of American history.

"How can you tell if the person at your door is really a Michigan Bell Employee?"

As you may have noticed, our employees do not wear uniforms. They dress in the way they think is most appropriate to get their jobs done. While this permits them to look like the individuals they are, it really doesn't help you identify them as Bell employees. But, there is a way. Every Michigan Bell employee is required to carry a Michigan Bell identification card giving his or her name, photograph, and signature. For your protection, be sure to see this card before you admit them into your home. They'll be happy to show it to you.

High schoolers to attend Career Day

Several thousand high school students from Washtenaw County will be attending a Career Day conference April 25 at Washtenaw Community College, sponsored by the college in cooperation with local business and industry.

The conference will provide speakers and programs on careers in more than 30 diverse areas, as well as on futures in the military. In addition, representatives from most Michigan colleges and universities, from all the military academies and from technical training institutions around the state will be available for consultation by the students.

Career discussions for the day run the gamut from those involved with the airline industry to those in sales and marketing.

Among the professionals who will be making presentations at the conference are Jim Anderson of Quarry Photo; Joan Barinotti, registered nurse; John Baublitt of the Ann Arbor Public Schools; Trooper Brant of the Michigan State Police; Robert Brooks of Great Lakes Federal; John Brown of United Airlines; Neil Bucholz, Training Director for the County Pipe Trades; Kenneth Butman of Butman Ford; John Clisch of Sanford Security; John Doherty of the Michigan Health Council; Harry French of French Insurance; Iota Frye, regional coordinator of the Michigan Student Financial Aid Association; and Brian Gordon of McNaughton and Gunn.

Chris Hart of the Cornell University food program; Kathleen Horon of Taylor Business School; Mary Hynes of Mercy School of Nursing; B. Kline of Bechtel; Bob

Lizer of the Michigan Employment Security Commission; Barb Pearson of Yorkwood Center; Earl Schafer of the Ann Arbor Public Schools; Dianne Sherman, Training Director of the J. L. Hudson Co.;

Bruce Sokolove of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department; Bobbie Thomas, professional model; Arthur Versnick of WAAM radio; and Richard Vykdyal of General Motors Hydramatic.

Students scheduled to attend the all day conference are those from the Ann Arbor Public Schools, Brighton, Chelsea, Dexter, Gabriel Richard, Lincoln Consolidated, Manchester, Milan, Pinckney, Saline, Whitmore Lake, Willow Run and Ypsilanti.

Students interested in attending the conference should make arrangements with their high school counselors.

What's for lunch?

Meatballs with mashed potatoes and gravy, chicken turnovers and baked macaroni and cheese will be among the entrees "whipped" up in the cafeterias of the Van Buren schools next week.

In the elementary schools the menu Monday will be sloppy joes on buns, baked beans, fruit, cookies and milk, followed by hot turkey sandwiches, mashed potatoes and gravy, cranberry sauce, cobbler and milk on Tuesday.

Next Wednesday the cafeterias will be serving chicken turnovers, with mashed potatoes and gravy, fruit, cake and milk, while a lineup of juice, pizza, vegetable, pudding and milk is on tap for next Thursday.

Closing out the week will be a menu of baked macaroni and cheese, vegetable, bread and butter, pie and milk.

In the junior highs the menu

Monday will be soup, cheeseburgers on buns, tator tots, fruit, cookies and milk, with beef-O-roni, with Italian vella cutlets, tossed salads, bread and butter, fruit Jell-O, pie and milk slated for Tuesday.

Next Wednesday the bill of fare will be three meatballs with mashed potatoes and gravy, bread and butter, fruit, pudding and milk.

Next Thursday's lineup will be juice, chili dogs on buns, fruit Jell-O, french fries, cake and milk, with soup, grilled cheese sandwiches, tossed salads, cobbler and milk rounding out the week.

Alternate menu selections will be Coney Island foot-longs Monday, club sandwiches Tuesday, Belleville burgers with cheese next Wednesday, chopped steak sandwiches next Thursday and Belleville burgers next Friday.

'Follow through' is reason to grow your own Vegetable transplants, that is!

Having exactly the varieties you want when it's time to put them in the garden and the opportunity to carry through with a crop from seedling to harvest — these are a couple of reasons for growing your own vegetable transplants.

According to Hugh Price, Michigan State University vegetable crops specialist, growing your own transplants also is a good way to avoid some serious problems. White flies and plant diseases may be present on purchased transplants.

Of course, diseases can be a problem with home-grown plants. The most common is damping-off, a fungus disease that kills young seedlings. Avoid it by using a sterile potting soil or synthetic growth medium, Price advised.

"You can make your own soil mix with peat, vermiculite and soil and then sterilize it in the oven or pressure cooker; but it's really kind of silly to go to all that work when you can purchase prepared, synthetic soil mixes," he pointed out. "They're more expensive, of course, but in the small quantities the home gardener would use, they make a lot of sense."

The containers used for growing transplants aren't critical — except in the case of melons, cucumbers, squash and watermelons. These crops will not tolerate being ripped out of the soil they're started in and transplanted bare root into another container or a garden spot. They should either be sown directly into the garden after the danger of frost is past or be started in peat pots so they can be set container and all into the ground.

Tomatoes, peppers and cole crops like broccoli and cabbage are much more resilient and can better tolerate being transplanted. Price says even these crops will benefit from being seeded into individual containers.

"Any time you transplant a plant and damage its roots, you disrupt its growth," he explained. "This slows the plant down and pushes back the time it will come into production. Sowing seeds into individual containers, especially containers that can be set right into the garden, eliminates a lot of root damage and minimizes disruption of the growth process."

Once home-grown seedlings get past the stage where damping-off is a hazard, the biggest problem usually is insufficient light. A sunny windowsill or even a south-facing bay window will not provide enough light for good growth.

"To grow compact, healthy transplants in the home almost always requires the use of supplemental light," Price said. "This is why many growers go to a cold frame or plastic lean-to or even a small greenhouse to grow their plants. In one of these structures, plants get all the available light as well as the sun's heat."

Proper temperatures are necessary for good plant growth. Though 65-75 degrees usually is given as the desirable temperature range for transplants, they can grow at temperatures as low as 58 degrees or as high as 80. All other things being equal, the warmer it is, the quicker they will grow. But they will manage even under dialed-down conditions, as long as they get enough light.

The older a plant is when it's transplanted, the longer it takes to adjust. Therefore, Price said "the younger the better for transplants."

Tomato seedlings grown under near ideal conditions should be no more than five to six weeks old when they're set into the garden. Plants grown in the home may take a little longer.

"Some people think that starting seeds in February and nursing the plants along until they can plant them outdoors in May will give them a big head start on production," Price observed. "But this isn't the case. By the time these plants go in, they already have flowers and fruits beginning to form. The plant trying to mature fruit doesn't have any energy to spare to build a strong root system and plenty of foliage to make the food it needs to produce a crop. So the plant never gets much bigger than it was when it was planted and it yields very poorly."

It's better to start with a smaller plant that can quickly adapt to outdoor conditions and spend a few weeks growing vegetatively, he suggested. This will insure that it's well established and prepared to produce a good crop.

Though Price does not advocate a drastic hardening-off procedure before setting transplants into the garden, he does recommend placing flats or trays of plants outside during warm May days for a week to 10 days before planting. This will help them get used to direct sun, wind and cooler temperatures.

A high phosphorus fertilizer used as a starter solution will promote root growth and help the plant get settled in the garden quickly, he suggested. Prior to planting, transplants grown in a prepared medium probably won't need fertilizing until they are about four weeks old. Use a soluble houseplant fertilizer, he advised. Water it onto the plants and then wash the foliage with water to prevent fertilizer burns.

Mr. Marvin P. Fischer presented a detailed report to the Board of Education on the status of the CETA Program. Board discussion followed.

CAC Recommendations - 1977-78 School Year

Moved by Lombardi supported by Woods to follow the recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools and the recommendations submitted by the Citizen's Advisory Committee to implement the programs for the remainder of the 1977-78 school year excluding the hiring of the Personnel-Labor Relations Manager, but to authorize administration to begin the mechanical process of filling the position. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried unanimously.

Purchase of Draperies - Beverly Multipurpose Room

Moved by Woods supported by Lombardi to accept the recommendation of the Asst. Supt. for M & O for the purchase of draperies for Beverly Multipurpose Room from Northwest Studios in the amount of $867.50. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried unanimously.

City Recreation - Basketball Program

Moved by Lombardi supported by Woods to accept the recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools and permit the Recreation Department the use of the North Junior High School gymnasium for six consecutive Saturdays at no cost to the school district. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried unanimously.

Bills for Payment

Moved by Slaughter supported by Campbell to approve the Bills for Payment as presented. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried unanimously.

Request from Woodhaven - Buses

Mr. Janack expounded on the telephone call received from Dr. June Gabler, Superintendent, Woodhaven School District requesting the loan of seven of our school buses. Mr. Janack also requested Board authorization to loan our buses to another school district if the need should arise. Board discussion followed. Moved by Woods supported by Lombardi to authorize the loaning of school buses to another district on an emergency basis with the inclusion of the State Harmless Clause, if necessary. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried unanimously.

Moved by Langley supported by Campbell that the meeting be adjourned. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried unanimously.

The meeting was adjourned at 8:29 P.M.

Respectfully submitted, Shirley A. Lombardi, Secretary, Romulus Board of Education.

Garden Doctor says...

Questions put to the Garden Doctor this week included:

(1) How should I prune bush roses?

These can be pruned in spring before leaf growth begins. Remove all dead wood about one inch below the dark colored canes or branches growing toward the center of the bush. If two branches cross, remove the weaker one. Finally cut the remaining canes back to 12 inches.

(2) What do dormant sprays do for trees?

Dormant sprays kill overwintering pests. There are two general types of dormant sprays — dormant oil and lime-sulfur. The dormant oil kills overwintering mites and scale. It is often used on fruit trees but rarely on maples, birches or other thin-barked trees. Lime-sulfur is the second type of dormant spray. It helps control some diseases, as well as some insects. The only trees on which dormant spray is routinely used each year are fruit trees.

(3) What vegetables can be sowed during April?

As soon as the garden soil is dry enough to work, we can sow lettuce, radishes, onions, carrots, Swiss chard, peas, spinach and collards. Transplants of cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower can also be planted this month.

(4) What can I do to thicken up the lawn?

First, try to determine why it is thin. If it is being shaded out by trees, rake the area and sow some creeping red fescue. There are, however, some places too shady for even this shade-tolerant grass. In that case, consider using a ground cover such as pachysandra or remove the lower tree branches so more light will be admitted. If the sparse area is in the sun, rake it and seed with a blend of bluegrass varieties. Include Adelphi, Baron, Majestic, Parade, Cheri, or Touch-down in the blend so some resistance to Fusarium blight will be had.

If bare areas are no larger than 6-by-6-inch reseeding usually is not needed. Fertilize the healthy grass properly and use pre-emergent crab grass killer if crabgrass was a problem last year.

If you notice grass dying for no apparent reason as the summer progresses, take a sample of the sod to your County Extension Service for examination.

11 suburban cities blast urban policy

Eleven suburban Wayne County commissioners have protested to Congress that counties "have received the short end of the stick in President Carter's badly hooded new urban policy."

The 11 signed a letter urging the two U.S. senators from Michigan and Wayne County's House delegation to take "entire urban areas into account" in considering Carter's urban bills.

County Commissioner Alex Pilch of Dearborn, who initiated the letter, said Carter's recent urban policy message "was a real shocker to all of us who know the pressing human needs that exist in the suburbs as well as in the core cities."

In addition to Pilch, the letter was signed by Mary E. Dumas (R-Livonia), George Z. Hart (D-Deerborn), Edgar L. Harris (D-Taylor), William R. Joyner (D-Plymouth Township), Richard E. Manning (D-Redford), Thomas Presnell (D-Westland), Ervin A. Stener Jr. (R-Grosse Pointe Farms), William G. Sullivan (D-Wyandotte), William G. Suzore (D-Lincoln Park) and Clarence R.

Young (D-Ecorse).

The 11 declared their "chagrin, disappointment and concern." They added that the proposed program "has little, if anything, to aid counties in fulfilling their responsibilities to their residents."

The letter noted that counties "carry a heavy share of the criminal justice system burden, health and welfare costs and a variety of people-oriented other services."

"Aid to distressed cities is, of course, commendable," the commissioners said, "but it is hardly news that economic and social distress is not confined to inner cities."

GORDON (MICKIE) SENART of Romulus passed away April 15th. He was born in Taylor. He attended Romulus Community Schools and graduated from Romulus High School in 1954. He enlisted in the U.S. Navy serving four years during the Korean conflict. He is survived by his wife Virginia, three sons, Michael, Joseph, and Raymond. His father Leo Senart and his brothers and sisters, Francis (Bud) of Taylor, John of Romulus, Eugene of California, Mrs. Clayton (Louise) Hubbard of Taylor, Mrs. Norman (Nan) Meyer of Romulus, Mrs. Merlin (Janet) Lemon of Romulus. Will be dearly missed by many nieces, nephews, and friends. He was preceded in death by his mother Helen (Nall) Senart in 1955. Services were held Tuesday, April 18th at Baum Funeral Home, Romulus, with Rev. Hal Ferris officiating. Interment at Parkview Memorial in Livonia.

EARL F. BLOCK of Romulus passed away April 14th at his residence. He was born and spent his life in Romulus. After graduating from Romulus High School he spent four years in the Marine Corp. during the second world war. He is survived by a daughter Mrs. James (Marjorie) Bergman, two sons Thomas F. and Robert E., and three grandchildren. His parents Fred and Minnie Block, a brother Junior Block, and a sister Mrs. William (Joyce) Steas. Services were held Monday, April 17th at Baum Funeral Home, Romulus, with Rev. Al Kauffman officiating. Interment Michigan Memorial Park.

WCCC offers 3 job-related ed programs

Three special job-related courses are being offered Downriver and in Western Wayne County through the Community Services-Continuing Education Office of Wayne County Community College.

"Energy Conservation Technology" and "Solar Heating and Cooling" are offered through the Southeast Michigan Technical Assistance Program (SEMTAP), which is a cooperative effort among 10 southeastern Michigan community colleges. It's designed to assist local business people learn about and use up-to-date energy conservation technology to more effectively deal with crucial energy demands and changing resource availability.

The program is designed for contractors in the energy conservation fields and small business consumers of energy.

"Energy Conservation Technology" will cover new construction materials, energy audits, cost-benefit analysis, intra-red technology, energy management programs. This class will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. May 1 through June 28 at Riverview High School, and from 7 to 9 p.m. May 9 through June 27 at Glenn High School in Westland.

"Solar Heating & Cooling" will cover current developments in solar systems for space heating and cooling, hot water heating and other applications in residential and commercial buildings, buying components, system design, architectural considerations, installation, operation and maintenance.

This class will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. May 9 through June 27 at Riverview High School and 7 to 9 p.m. May 11 through June 29 at Glenn High School.

One-hour free previews of these classes will be offered one week prior to the first class session.

Also being offered this spring will be "Principles of Warehousing", designed for entry into the field of warehousing and transportation. The class will cover basic duties, operation of a hi-lo, procedures for shipping and receiving, types of carriers for shipping, and how to set up inventory systems for a warehouse.

This course will be held at Kennedy High School in Taylor from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. May 8 through June 5, with a free preview May 1.

Registration can be done either at a preview, at the first class session or at the Community Services - Continuing Education office, 4612 Woodward. For a full class listing or further information call 832-4750.

YWCA organizes mastectomy group

In an effort to help women accept themselves and the circumstances of their lives, the YWCA of Western Wayne has launched the Encore Program.

According to program organizers, Encore's aim is to provide physical and emotional rehabilitation for women who have had mastectomies.

Helen Glines Kahut, an Encore coordinator, said, "Some women are able to accomplish these objectives entirely on their own."

However, she added, "Others, probably the majority, are greatly helped by discovering that they are not alone - and that is the purpose of Encore."

The copyrighted postmastectomy group program, sponsored by the national YWCA, will hold weekly sessions in the evenings from 7:30 to 9.

Beginning Tuesday, April 25 at Stout Junior High at 8500 Oakwood in Dearborn, interested women with a doctor's written permission are encouraged to join the group for a $2 fee per session.

Program activities include: gentle exercises, discussion and "emotional support" through group interaction. A half-hour of water exercise has also been planned since it has been found to be one of the "quickest" ways to redevelop muscles and regain flexibility.

In order to insure participant safety, program coordinators have set up an advisory committee made up of doctors from area hospitals, cancer foundation representatives, nurses and social workers.

Encore Program sessions will be conducted by Audrey Wasserman, program area director of the Y, and swimming instructor Nancy Clauer.

For further information and registration schedules, call Wasserman at 561-4110.

Will save on health payments

Group backs non-profit medical care act

Citing potential annual savings of $20 million or more in Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan mental health payments, an ad hoc group of consulting psychologists has endorsed legislation to amend the state's Non-Profit Medical Care Corporation Act.

Psychologists' Task Force president Dr. William J. Rowell said House Bill No. 6195 and Senate Bill No. 1442 would open the way for certified consulting psychologists to become independent providers under the act.

While hospitalization traditionally has been the most significant cost and inflationary factor in the health care field, a large percentage of the mental health patients currently hospitalized under Blues' coverage could be given equally effective treatment on an out-patient basis," he said. "Certified consulting psychologists provide a major proportion of their services to out-patients."

Rowell said Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield date, gathered between 1970 and 1976, demonstrates that the number of psychiatric service, per 1,000 subscribers, increased 624 percent. At the same time, charges for psychiatric services increased 337 percent.

"It is our position, and one we stand ready to support, that passage of the amendments to enable Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield to utilize Certified consulting psychologists as independent providers would effect a very substantial savings in providing these services," he said.

Rowell added that many states have enacted legislation to require independent provider status for consulting psychologists. Under the federal-state government sponsored Medicaid health plan, 18 states provide such status, while laws in 20 states, including Michigan, require health insurers to directly pay consulting psychologists.

"Unfortunately," he added, "The Michigan law applies to all insurers except Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield."

Rowell pointed out that Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield costs for hospitalized care were five times greater than their costs for out-patient care. In-patient costs per service averages $178.73 while out-patient cost per service was $33.97.

Spice up those showers-- try a few new twists

Think 'clever' for the bride-to-be

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

So many things involved with "that big day" — the wedding — are hectic, nerve-racking and time-consuming to the point of exhaustion. But there are also the pleasant, relaxing aspects, too — the fringe benefits — which come with setting an altar date.

One of the nicest is the bridal shower; that time when friends and relatives gather to share the bride-elect's happiness and to see that she has help filling the empty cupboards, drawers, closets and rooms in her new home.

The bridal shower, without which a young couple would find themselves literally "starting from scratch", has taken on many new designations over the years as hostesses strive to be clever and original. Particularly when the young woman is being given more than one shower, party-planners attempt to find novel and fun ways to entertain.

The kitchen shower, once "the" big theme, has given way to more specific categories such as "pantry" (where guests bring foodstuffs, spices, home-canned goods), "recipe" when each is requested to type her favorite and then bring the dish, utensil, pan, etc. in which it is to be made. Sometimes there's also a request for one of the ingredients — a can of corn, tin of bread crumbs, spice or herb to further embellish the gift.

When a shower is to be one with many, many guests it is almost always labeled "miscellaneous." But the more popular trend for smaller, intimate parties allows a hostess to be imaginative and come up with such delights as a "whim and a fancy" — having gifts geared to the honoree's pastimes, hobbies, profession. Is she a houseplant buff? A lover of crewel, needlepoint or knitting? An aspiring young artist? An upcoming gourmet cook or already a fine baker? A tennis nut? An avid reader? Shopping the specialty areas of department stores or those many cute gift shops will produce dozens of ideas. The possibilities are almost endless.

Basic linen showers have grown to include sidelines such as bathroom and closet — those beautiful coordinated bath accessories will leave you drooling. How about a variety of brushes for the nails, back, hair, clothes, toilet? Or one of those delightful gingham or calico picture frames? Check out the many super garment bags, hat boxes, shoe racks or padded hangars which can do so much to unclutter a closet.

Take the bridegroom into consideration if you're planning a couple's shower and request either one gift for both or two smaller gifts for their individual preferences. Let your imagination run rampant and you'll find yourself with dozens of useful combinations; a plastic bucket, scrub brush, sponge, household cleaners for her (tuck in some good rags as well — how many newlyweds have such a thing as rags?) Then put together a larger pail for him with chamois, sponge, soap, car wax, hose nozzle, etc. for his needs. Gifts need not be overly expensive — stick to the basics and real needs of the couple.

The "around-the-clock" or "hour-shower" is another gimmick that's a lot of fun. Each guest is given a certain hour of the day for which her gift is to be used and, at the party, the hostess will probably proceed in a dawn to mid-night sequence in handing the honored guest her gifts.

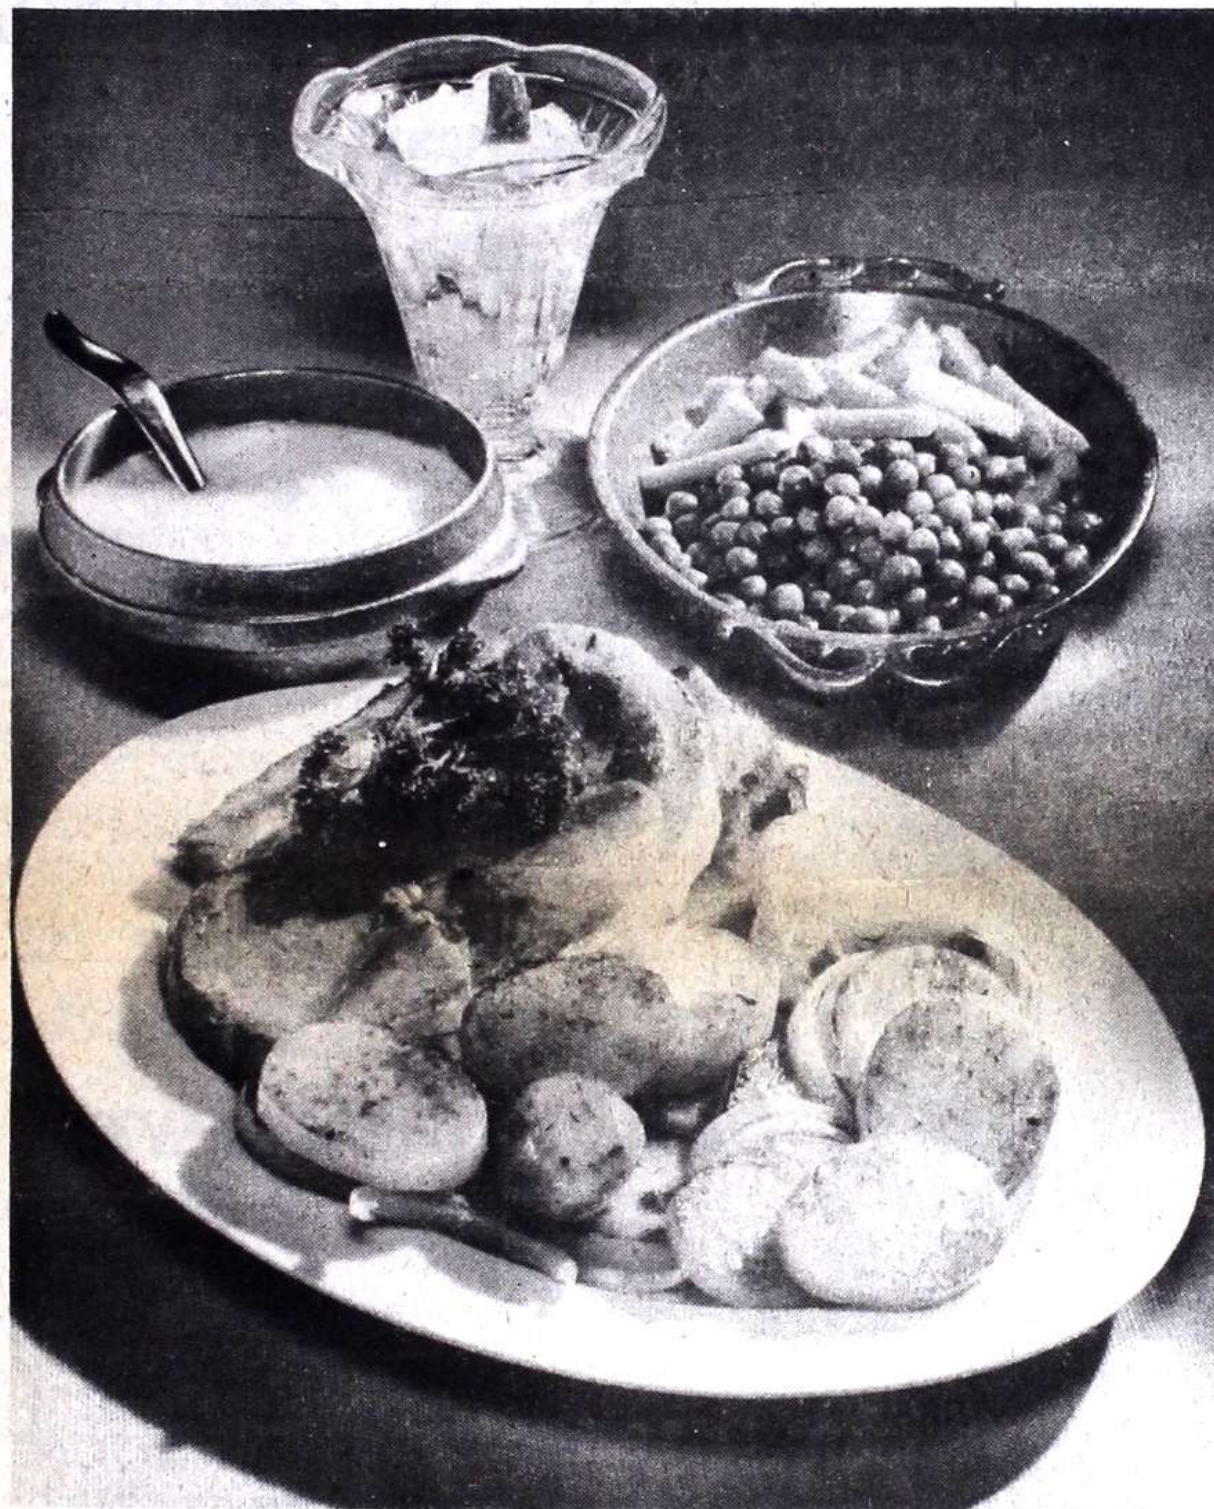

So you got 3 p.m.? A crock pot could be bubbling at that hour.

Seven in the evening? Guests are coming — how about playing cards, a card table cover, coasters, poker chips?

This is interesting in that it allows for lots of ingenuity. One has to remember to use a difficult hour-of-the-day for weekends as well. So she's not home during the week to use a 1 p.m. present; she COULD be cleaning, baking or entertaining at luncheon on a Saturday.

There are just all kinds of possibilities for trying something unusual — it just takes a bit of thought and imagination. Limited space prevents me from going into detail on other types of showers but here are even more hints — how about a bar accessories shower (for both snack bar and the drinking variety) . . . spice-condiments-recipe shower . . . patio and lawn shower . . . tool shower (both for him and her and don't forget, all those kitchen utensils can be categorized as "tools.")

The list is really almost endless. Now add your own ideas!

Southern cooking

In the Southern tradition — Ham and Home Fries with Red Eye Gravy is not only good flavor-wise and nutritionally but is economy plus which we are all looking for these inflationary days. Andrew Jackson is said to be thanked for this classic dish which is excellent served with hot buttered peas and a fruited gelatin salad.

Ham 'n potatoes - Southern style

The American South is well-known for its warm hospitality and great cooking. The hams and fried chicken, characteristic of Southern cooking, date back centuries to a time when beef cattle were not abundant and pigs and chickens were raised for food. Molasses was, and still is, a favorite sweetener in Southern cooking, and frying a popular method of cooking.

Southern cooks knew how to be thrifty and coaxed wonderful flavor out of inexpensive, readily available ingredients. One famous dish we still enjoy today is Southern Ham and Home Fries with Red Eye Gravy. Like so many recipes that have withstood the test of time, this one is just as delicious and economical today as it was centuries ago.

Southern Ham and Home Fries is a wonderful recipe to make use of leftover ham. It's especially economical when you add potatoes, always a good buy and particularly so this year due to a big crop. For just pennies per serving, potatoes add vitamin C, several B vitamins and essential minerals to the protein, B vitamins and iron in the ham. So you get a hearty serving of nutrition as well as flavor from this dish.

Red Eye Gravy is a Southern specialty made from the ham and potato pan juices. We have Andrew Jackson to thank for this classic. As the story goes, he ordered his cook, who was suffering from a hangover, to make a ham gravy the color of the cook's eyes. The result, rich with milk and flavored with coffee, is delicious and easy to make.

Serve Southern Ham and Home Fries with Red Eye Gravy with glazed carrots, hot buttered peas and fruited gelatin for dessert. You'll have a meal in the finest Southern tradition, rich with flavor and nutrition for less than $1 per serving.

Ham and Home Fries with Red Eye Gravy

3 pound piece of smoked picnic ham
Cooking oil
6 medium potatoes (about 2 pounds), unpeeled and sliced 1/2 inch thick

1 onion, sliced
Salt and pepper
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon instant coffee powder

Cut ham in 1/4 inch slices, trimming fat. Put sliced ham aside. Fry trimmings in large skillet (with lid); then discard trimmings, reserving rendered fat. Add oil to make 4 tablespoons, if necessary. Heat. Add potatoes and onions to skillet. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Lower heat. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. Transfer potatoes to heated platter; keep warm. Fry ham slices until golden on both sides. Arrange on platter. To drippings in skillet, add 1/4 cup water. Cook over medium heat, to loosen browned bits. Pour in milk; cook gently 3 minutes. Add coffee powder. Taste for seasoning. Serve in gravy boat, along with potatoes and ham. Makes 6 servings.

NOTE: If a thicker gravy is desired, stir a teaspoon of flour into drippings, before adding water and milk. All recipes have been tested by a consumer panel.

Romulus senior citizens plan for Michigan Week

A representative from the Wayne County Office on Aging, Joe Ostafinski, was guest speaker at the recent meeting of Romulus Senior Citizens Club No. 1. He told of the many services available to senior citizens at the "J" Building Multi-purpose Senior Center at Eloise. Members of the club were urged to look into the services being offered and were invited to call him at 326-9400 for further information.

At the April 18 meeting, Gene Wilson showed movies of the 1977

Michigan Week parade and senior day program. This was done in conjunction with the plans being formulated for Michigan Week 1978. Community pride Day and Senior Citizens Day will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. May 27 at the Romulus City Hall parking lot.

The group is planning a crafts exhibit and sale. Donuts and cookies will be available, free coffee will be served and awards presented in a number of categories. Prizes will go to the eldest male and female residents of Romulus, the oldest married couple, the first baby born between April 15 and May 15, the person with the best voting record, the Romulus business surviving the longest in the same location, for cake decorating and many others to be announced at a later date.

Club members will also comprise a square dance group with music for the occasion furnished by the Senior Combo. The seniors have donated $50 for prizes and other groups are also providing funds. A potluck picnic will be the finale of Senior Day program.

Study Club hosts co-authors

The Education Department of the Belleville Women's Study Club was in charge of the program for the April 12 meeting held at the Lemontree Clubhouse. Lois Hamilton and her committee, Shirley Books, Sye Chen and Wilma Petrasky, played hostess for the evening.

Co-authors of "Water Under the Bridge", Diane Wilson and Cathy Horste, spoke on their collaboration in writing the history of Van Buren Township and the many interesting incidents connected with their research. Many Study Club members, themselves, it was found, had ancestors mentioned in the book. A general discussion followed.

Some 30 women attended the session including guests, Shar Tator and Lilyan Carlson. The closing meeting in May will be a salad luncheon at which time the new officers will be installed.

Virginia Turney announced that the Ann Arbor Women's City Club will sponsor its Annual Home Tour from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. April 28 and that the community was invited to attend.

No snapshots --please!

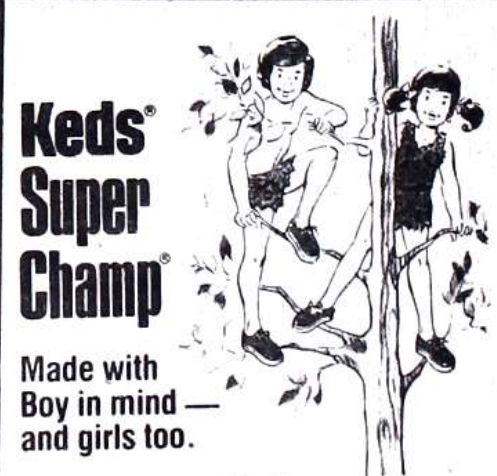

In order to offer the best reproduction possible on pictures, we must stress that we will NOT accept snapshots (candid) for publication with engagements and wedding stories.

So that those submitting the information for these two very important times in their lives will not be disappointed when their photographs are not used, we are repeating this oft-printed notice.

It is the policy of this newspaper to use both the bride and her bridegroom or the bride alone in a picture to accompany the wedding story.

And, although we prefer to use only headshots of the bride-to-be with her engagement, we WILL accept a photograph of the couple. That is, IF the picture was professionally taken especially for the announcement. We will NOT accept prom pictures, photos from weddings where the couple may have been attendants, polaroids or snapshots.

Honeymoon in South follows Foley-Macomber ceremony

Following their recent honeymoon in the South, the newly wed Robert William Foleys Jr. took up residence at 6973 Belleville Rd., Belleville.

Linda Marie Macomber became Mrs. Foley in an April 8 ceremony at Grace Baptist Church of Canton where some 250 assembled guests witnessed the two o'clock rite. Pastor Robert Diekema presided at the double ring wedding before an altar appointed with two arrangements of flowers, lighted tapers and a wedding candle.

Organist for the occasion was Mrs. Frederick Brenner of Canton. Paul Vegh of Brighton performed as soloist.

The bride, who lived at 8251 Wahrman Rd., Romulus, at the time of her marriage, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Macomber of 5508 Pine Forest Ct., Tampa, Fla.

Parents of the bridegroom, at whose address the young couple are now living, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Foley Sr. of 32003 Ottawa, Westland.

Escorted up the aisle by her father, Linda appeared in a white polyester organza gown designed with a square neckline on the little fitted bodice, a long train and clear organza sleeves, all accented with lace.

The same lace trimmed her chapel length veil of silk illusion while a cascade bouquet of roses, baby's breath and trailing ivy, (a mixture of silk and fresh blooms) completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Sandy Sanney came from Tampa, Fla. to serve as her sister's honor attendant. Her long pastel green gown of Windsong polyester was styled with sheer Georgette sleeves delicately trimmed in white lace. Live and silk flowers in shades of blue comprised the bouquet she held.

Carrying out the rainbow theme of the wedding was the quartet of bridesmaids: Mrs. Gregory McFadden of Livonia in blue; Mrs. Michael Macomber, the bride's sister-in-law from Romulus, in lavender; Gail Binkley of Romulus in yellow, and Darlene Norhagen of Westland in peach.

The bridegroom asked his close friend, Thomas Ford of Belleville, to be best man. Groomsmen were Charles Wilson of Westland; Michael Macomber of Romulus, brother of the bride; Warren Leake of Wayne, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Daniel Higgs of Westland.

Mrs. Macomber chose for her daughter's wedding a formal gown of baby blue polyester with a waist-length lace jacket. A coral print with a sheer companion jacket was the choice of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Foley.

At the reception, which followed at Leright's banquet room in Westland, the bride's cousins, Lauri and Lisa McKay of Westland, poured punch and two aunts of the bride, Mrs. Gordon Macomber and Mrs. Richard Macomber, both of Saline, cut the wedding cake.

The newlyweds honeymoon trip of two weeks duration included five days in Gatlinburg, Tenn., two days in Greenville, S.C. with the bride's grandparents, and a week in Florida visiting the bride's parents.

The new Mrs. Foley is a 1972 Wayne Memorial High School graduate who spent two years at Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C. where she affiliated with the Bronte Society. She previously was employed at Detroit and Northern S & L in Livonia.

A 1964 alumnus of Wayne Memorial High School, her new husband holds an airframe and powerplant license from the Detroit Institute of Aeronautics. He is employed at Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors at Willow Run.

Home Arts sees bobbin lace demo

The vice-president of the Home Arts Club, Betty Gott, conducted the April meeting in the home economics room of North Junior High School where 15 members answered roll call. Six guests were also introduced: Sharon Richendollar, Mary Kosiin j.g., Mary Hendrix, Sally Jones, Ruth Jacob and Jeanne Hartwick.

The May banquet, which annually brings the club season to a close, will be held at 7 p.m. May 8 at the Spaghetti Bender in Ypsilanti. Members are asked to please contact anyone on the program committee by May 1 to make their reservations and those for any guest they plan to invite.

Mary Kosiin distributed ballots for the spring election, the results of which will be announced at the banquet. Virginia Turney then introduced Kathy Campbell of Ypsilanti who spoke on the history of bobbin lace and gave a demonstration of the intricate old-world art. She also displayed several samples of her work which had taken awards at the Michigan State Fair.

A spring theme was used by Avis White, Eula Haft, Sylvia Amerman and Lillian Ray for their refreshments table which was centered with an arrangement of colorful blooms donated by Ray's Greenhouse. The lucky winner of the centerpiece was Nancy Trevorrow.

Anniversary forms available

For those marking wedding anniversaries with celebrations and parties, we have special anniversary forms to fill out. The questionnaires include all the pertinent information needed for putting a story together.

If you are planning to celebrate an anniversary and would like your friends to read about it in The Belleville Enterprise of The Romulus Roman, simply stop by our office at 116 Fourth St., Belleville, or telephone the Suburban Living Editor, Lee Smith, at 697-9191 to have a form mailed out.

Huron Valley Garden Club hears Wied

The Huron Valley Garden Club held its recent meeting at the home of Mrs. Emma Smith where the regular business meeting was conducted prior to the program.

Mrs. Charlotte Budd introduced the guest speaker for the day, Marshall Wied, a teacher from Belleville High School, who showed slides and told the history of Belleville Lake. On the subject of ecology, he discussed the present problem of pollution and some of the contributing factors. He asked all to help clean the lake by planting trees and shrubs at its edges to keep the polluting factors out of the lake.

He later held a question and answer session and pointed out that all citizens should attend the local meetings on pollution and be made aware of what is needed to clean up our lake.

Golden year couple feted at dinner party

By MRS. JOSEPH SPRING 699-4021

Mrs. Margaret Anderson of Menlo Park Drive entertained at a four o'clock dinner April 8 honoring her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Robert of Detroit, on their 50th wedding anniversary.

Places were laid for six with an appropriate centerpiece holding gold candles on a 50-year-old tablecloth made by the hostess who also had a special cake for the occasion.

Guests were close relatives, Mrs. Virginia Brown of Ann Arbor and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hatch of Church Street.

Mrs. Chester Shoup of Morencie has been a guest this past week at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stevens of East Huron River Drive. While here she celebrated her 86th birthday.

Mrs. Muriel Smith of Liberty Street was a guest at a luncheon on April 6 given by Mrs. Richard Zeeman of Romulus in honor of the latter's sister, Mrs. Agnes Martin of Tampa, Fla. Others present were Mrs. M. McNutt, Mrs. Margaret Stafford and Mrs. Gail, all of Romulus.

Members of Belleville Assembly No. 49, Rainbow for Girls, attended a Grand Reception and birthday dinner for Traverse City Assembly No. 55, held at the Masonic Temple on April 8.

Representing the local group were Libby Gruebel, Worthy Advisor; Rhonda Clarton, Assoc. Drill Leader; Denise Welt, State Study Committee; Roberta Welt, Grand Nature; and Sylvia Carey, Grand Representative to Arkansas.

The girls were accompanied by Mother Advisor Rose Ann Welt; Roberta Pond, a member of the Rainbow board; and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carey.

Mrs. Arthur Dellman of Utica was a guest last Saturday of cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mericle of Denton Road.

Mr. and Mrs. George Maki of Quirk Road recently returned home from Lansdowne, Pa. where they had been guests of their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Maki.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arndt of Bellaire were in Belleville last weekend visiting family and friends. Saturday, April 8, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Fulton of Willis Road and the Arndts celebrated Debbie Fulton's birthday by having dinner at Lim's in Ann Arbor. Sunday the group had dinner at the Harris Road home of Lee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Taft Barnett.

After having spent the past four months in Chandler, Ariz., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clayton returned to their home on Bedell Street on April 6. While away they enjoyed being with their daughter, Nancy, and her husband, Arthur Tucholski, and their daughter, Janet. They took trips to Santiago, Calif., Las Vegas, Nev., Old Mexico, the Organ Pipe Monument and Prescott, Ariz. Enroute home they visited the Petrified Forest and Painted Desert.

Mrs. Frank Bush, who has been spending the past week with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Florian of Liberty Street, left last Sunday for her home at East McKeesport, Pa.

Another sister, Mrs. William Smilago, who had also spent some time at the Florian home, returned to North Versailles the previous week.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon J. Boldt of Roland Street returned home Wednesday from Tampa, Fla. where they attended the National Eagle Tri Plex Vault Association meetings. While there they enjoyed a tour of Busch Gardens and dined at a luau.

Guests this past week at the home of Mrs. Helen White of Bedell Street were her two sisters and their husbands from Illinois, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reuther of Effingham and Mr. and Mrs. John Slugocki of Mattoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mericle of Denton Road were Tuesday dinner guests of their niece, Mrs. Don Hoyt of Saline.

Mrs. R. G. Atyeo of Church Street recently returned from Santa Rosa, Calif. where she had spent the past six weeks with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Winston Turner.

Mrs. Cora Horton of Battle Creek spent several days this past week with friends in Belleville and attended the Charter Night celebration of the Romulus BPW Club on April 8.

After having spent some time visiting relatives in North Bend and Salem, Ore. and friends in Eugene, Ore., Mrs. Joseph Spring has returned home.

Mrs. Betty Fulton, who took over writing her column for this paper during the winter, wishes to thank all who helped by contributing their news during Mrs. Spring's absence.

Mrs. Effie Kerbyson was a guest several days recently of a friend, Mrs. Cora Horton of Battle Creek.

Luncheon raffle prizes

The Episcopal Church Women (ECW) still sponsor "Luncheon is Served" at 11:30 April 26 in the hall at Trinity Episcopal Church. In conjunction with the meal being arranged by Kroger's, the group will hold a raffle with a handmade comforter, scenic mirror clock, a $25 permanent, quilt-designed pillows, planter and china painting as prizes. Three members of the ECW, Fern Ellward (from left), Lois Gibbings and Jeane Wilson, pose with several of the awards.

Joyce Maki new prexy of PM's

The April meeting of the Past Matrons' Association of Belleville Chapter No. 73, Order of the Eastern Star, was held April 6 at the home of Mrs. Charles Kidwell of Ellen Drive, the daughter of Dorothy Kellas who served as hostess.

Present for the usual 12:30 luncheon were 13 members and one guest, Mrs. Kidwell. The group was happy to welcome Irene Skaggs back from Port Clinton, Ohio.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Eva Luper, with devotions being led by chaplain Dorothy Kellas. It being the annual meeting, dues were paid and election of officers held with the following results: Joyce Maki, president; Cora Bradshaw, vice-president; Elda Bohl, secretary, and Frances McAtee, treasurer. The chaplain is to be appointed at a later date.

Following adjournment the hostess presented a paper and pencil game with awards going to Mae Fielder, Rachel Hamilton and Cora Bradshaw. Pauline Quinley received the door prize.

Jackie Wood to host La Leche

The Downriver LaLeche League will hold its fourth meeting April 24 at 8 p.m. at the home of Jackie Wood, 30633 Dru, Romulus.

The name, LaLeche, is Spanish and means "the milk." A non-sectarian, non-profit organization, the League's purpose is to help encourage "good mothering through breastfeeding."

The group will meet the fourth Monday of each month. A series of four meetings will discuss, informally, different phases of breastfeeding. Topic for the meeting, "Nutrition and Weaning" will be led by Linda Pierce.

All women who are interested in nursing their babies are invited, as are their babies. You need not be pregnant or even have a family to attend. If you are a wife and hope some day to have children, if you are a grandmother, if you are interested you are welcome.

LaLeche League began in a

Chicago suburb 20 years ago when one mother who had successfully nursed her baby, helped another who wanted to breastfeed.

This is still the basic approach, although the League is now international in scope, with more than 3,700 groups helping thousands of women in the United States, Canada, and over 40 foreign countries.

For further information about the Downriver LaLeche League Group, contact Joan Kossman, 282-6269.

First child is a girl for Bowers

The birth of their first child, a daughter, is announced by Terry and Vicki Bower of 3053 Shattuch Arms, No. 5, Saginaw. Making her debut at Saginaw General Hospital on March 22, Allisyn Leslie weighed 7 lbs. - 6 ozs. and measured 20½ inches in length.

She is the granddaughter of Kenneth and Bette Palmer of Belleville and Merlin and Eleanor Kerr of Romeo.

The new mother is the former Vicki Palmer.

Taylor pair, W. Proffitts, have a son

There's a new sound being heard around the Taylor home of Warren and Marie Proffitt these early spring days — that of their infant son, Nicholas Michael, who made the Proffitts a family on April 6.

The 8 lb. - 9 oz. heir put in his appearance at Riverside Hospital in Trenton and is now nicely ensconced in his nursery at 26843 Eureka Road.

Two Romulus couples, Mr. and Mrs. Michael McPhee and Mr. and Mrs. John Proffitt, are the newcomers' proud grandparents.

Self-awareness classes are set

Now that spring has finally arrived, why not join the YWCA every Tuesday evening for six weeks to learn "How to Dig Your Whole"? The YWCA of Western Wayne County is sponsoring this class for women. The six sessions will be held on Tuesday evenings at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church, 9601 Hubbard, at West Chicago, in Livonia. The sessions will be held from 7:30 - 9 p.m. and will begin April 25.

Ms. Irene Lopez, graduate student in the School of Social Work, University of Michigan, will facilitate the sessions in an informal atmosphere, allowing for expression of feelings with a focus on self-awareness and personal growth.

The fee for the class is $14 plus $6 annual YWCA membership fee. For further information or registration, please call Audrey Wasserman, 561-4110.

Paulsen appears at EMU

Comedian Pat Paulsen will present his satirical "Lecture on Humor" in a benefit appearance at Eastern Michigan University on Saturday. His "lecture" will be presented at 8 p.m. in Pease Auditorium on the EMU campus.

Proceeds from Paulsen's appearance will be used for the Artists-in-Residence Program of the EMU department of speech and dramatic arts.

In his Lecture on Humor, Paulsen pokes fun at all periods in history, finding an anecdote, story or joke to tell about each. He also will show several out-takes from such programs as the Merv Griffin Show. (His appearance on this program never made it to the airwaves because of his racy brand of humor.)

Paulsen, who calls himself one of the nation's leading non-candidates for president, said in recent years he has become 'acutely aware of the incredible waste of one of our greatest natural resources — the skin that forms on chocolate pudding!'

"I began then and there to restore our country's position in the pudding race," he said. "I started by going doo-t-to-door, meeting the people and demonstrating the many practical uses for this precious material. My ideas for making shoes and rain apparel were so successful that in just a few days, absolutely no one would talk to me. Soon the requests to stay away froms hopping centers, bowling alleys, schools and factories were pouring in."

Paulsen explained, however, that his newly-found lack of support was heartening. Obscurity has, in fact, been his goal and the pudding problem set the stage for his political demise: "This one issue was the manure I needed to completely kill any grass roots support."

The comedian stressed that he is not a one-issue man. He is a damanet about the Panama Canal controversy: "I feel we should give it back," he said, "but we should fill it in first."

He offers a compelling argument in support of his antipgun control position: "Who knows when you might be walking down the street and spot a moose."

Paulsen reportedly sees no need for birth control, since he sees no population problem. "Just think for a minute," he said. "I had two parents, my parents had four parents, their parents had eight parents and so on. It therefore seems clear to me that the polulation is dwindling."

On other issues, Paulsen describes his position as "picky, picky, picky" — the adage that has become his trademark.

Paulsen claims that he has retired from the rat race of politics. He purchased the Cherry County Playhouse in Traverse City and hopes to launch a new career — acting.

General admission to Paulsen's benefit performance is $10. Eastern Michigan students will be admitted for $5. A donation of $25 designates audience members as Friends of the Theatrical Arts. All donations are tax deductible.

Tickets may be purchased at the McKenny Union ticket booth on the EMU campus.

Music Hall expands '78-79 season

The Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts, recognized as the area's primary showcase for America's major dance companies, has announced it will nearly double the number of dance performances for the center's 1978-79 season, in response to the success and number of sold-out performances this year.

Nine outstanding companies have been engaged for a total of 58 performances, placing Music Hall among the largest presentors of dance in the United States.

"There is a dance explosion happening all around the country," said Alan Lichtenstein, Music Hall manager, "and there is a combination of reasons for it. Dance is the most original, visual form of entertainment available. The success of public television's 'Dance in America' series has helped build an audience, and the tremendous popularity of the film, 'The Turning Point' has created a widespread acceptance and interest in dance."

"It's the fastest-growing spectator sport in America."

Music Hall has divided its dance offerings into a choice of nine different series so that people may order four, five or eight performances on a subscription (season ticket) basis, with Wednesday through Sunday selections.

Companies lined up for the 1978-79 dance season, which opens in September and runs until May, are the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater; San Francisco Ballet;

'Arms and the Man'

George Bernard Shaw's popular comedy "Arms and the Man" will open April 28 at the Bonstelle Theatre on the campus of Wayne State University in Detroit. Randi Sanfield will appear as Raina, with Mark Johannes as Bluntschli. "Arms and the Man" will play

Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 p.m. and at 2 p.m. Sunday until its closing May 7. For information and reservations contact the university theatre box office, located at the corner of Cass and Hancock in the Hilberry Theatre, at 577-2960.

Cast is announced for musical 'Cole'

Artistic Director Terence Kilburn has set the cast for "Cole", an entertainment based on the music and lyrics of Cole Porter, which will open a five-week run at the Meadow Brook Theatre on April 20 at 8:30 p.m. on the campus of Oakland University near Rochester.

The cast of eight singer-dancer-actors includes Meadow Brook newcomers Frank Root, Marianne Challis, Henry J. Jordan, Connie Coit, Kevin Wilson, Nancy Grahn, Richard Walker and returning Michele Mullen, who appeared in Meadow Brook's musical productions of "The Drunkard" and "Yankee Ingenuity".

"Cole" will be directed and choreographed by John Sharpe, with musical direction by Jim Hohmeyer. Bill Meyer will be the assistant musical director. Setting and lights will be by Peter Hicks, with costumes by Mary Lynn Bonnell.

Opening week performances of "Cole" are scheduled at 8:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, 2 and 8:30 p.m. Saturday and 6:30 p.m. Sunday. The following four weeks will offer performances at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 6 and 9:30 p.m. Saturdays, 6:30 p.m.

Sundays and 2 p.m. Wednesdays. The theatre is dark on Mondays. Tickets for all performances can be purchased by calling the Meadow Brook Theatre box office at 377-3300.

According to Auto Club

Insurance law guarantees equitable rates

Only through an essential insurance law can Michigani- ans be guaranteed private automobile and homeowners insurance at equitable rates and without fear of cancellation, Automobile Club of Michigan said April 6.

"By equitable, we mean that bad drivers would pay the price for their carelessness and would not be subsidized by good drivers, and homeowners who are good risks would be charged accordingly," explained Clifford Benson, general manager of Auto Club's Insurance

Group. "With the essential insurance law, persons would be charged the same rates for equal risks in a county."

The essential insurance law would not make good drivers pay for bad drivers, as one large insurer has claimed in a letter mailed to 400,000 of its insureds, Benson said.

He noted that the letter has been condemned by Rep. Matthew McNeely, chairman of the House Insurance Committee, as "a self-serving, inaccurate analysis" of the essential insurance law.

"This insurer and several other large national insurance companies operating in Michigan oppose the essential insurance law because it would force them to accept their responsibility to offer insurance at a fair price to Michigani- ans," Benson said. "Those companies are advocating a Band-Aid approach to solving the problems of insurance availability and redlining, but it just won't work, and that is why we endorse Substitute House Bill 5196, introduced by Rep. George Cushingberry Jr."

The AAA Insurance Group writes 25 percent of the auto insurance in Michigan (1,176,000 policies), more than the next two companies combined. It is one of the leading writers of Michigan homeowners insurance.

"With the essential insurance law, all insurance companies offering auto and home insurance would be required to 'take all comers' as a condition of operating in Michigan, thereby guaranteeing consumers the right to shop for the best possible rates, coverage and service which will be set by the forces of true competition," Benson said.

Michigan's citizens now spend more than $1 billion a year on automobile insurance and another $250 million on homeowners insurance. Both are absolutely essential, Benson pointed out. State law requires motorists to have auto insurance. Home insurance is necessary to obtain a mortgage.

"For many citizens, this essential insurance coverage is becoming impossible to obtain and for some, it is too costly," Benson said. "Instead of being able to shop for the best rates and service, many are forced into a state insurance pool or assigned risk plan where they must pay more money for less coverage."

It also is supported by Gov. William Milliken, House Speaker Bobby Crim, State Insurance Commissioner Thomas Jones, the United Auto Workers, the Michigan AFL-CIO, the statewide Coalition Against Redlining, Michigan Catholic Conference, other consumer groups and several other Michigan-based insurance companies."

Medical paperwork is for your protection

(Reprinted as a public service by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan, with permission of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Indiana.)

This series of articles is designed to answer some of the questions you have about Medicare protection. Among the items to be covered will be your hospital insurance benefits, your medical insurance benefits, other services and supplies covered, how to fill out those all-important claim forms and supplemental insurance protection.

Medicare is a federal health care insurance program operated by the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) for persons over the age of 65 and those who qualify for disability income under Social Security.

There also is special Medicare coverage for persons who qualify as chronic kidney failure patients.

If you are one of those one million Michiganders over the age of 65, it's a good bet you already have signed up for that sometimes marvelous, sometimes mystifying maze of medicine, hospitalization and money known as Medicare.

Medicare should not be confused with Medicaid — another federally-funded program operated through the State Department of Social Services. Medicaid is a program for welfare recipients — those persons who cannot afford to make any financial contribution at all toward proper health care. Now here's a point to remember — a point that sometimes confuses people.

If you are receiving Social Security, your hospitalization insurance premium (Part A) already is paid. You have received credit for the amounts you paid into Social Security during your lifetime. This program is financed through the Social Security (FICA) deductions shown on nearly every paycheck.

But your medical (Part B) protection is a partnership between you and the federal government. Part B coverage, unlike Part A, requires a monthly premium of $7.70 ($8.20 effective July 1, 1978). You may pay this sum on a monthly or yearly basis, but most Medicare beneficiaries prefer to have the amount deducted from their Social Security check.

Should you decide that you do not wish Part B protection, it is your responsibility to advise your local Social Security office of this fact. Take good care of your medicare identification card. This card provides your proper identification should you need medical care — and it contains that all-important health insurance claim number which must be shown on all claim forms. It is that nine-digit number on the Medicare card.

As we said before, Medicare is sometimes marvelous and sometimes mystifying, but it is playing a tremendous role in providing health care protection for older Michigan citizens.

The rules and regulations governing the Medicare program are set by the Federal government through the Health Care Financing Administration.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan is the largest fiscal intermediary for Medicare in Michigan and its sole responsibility is to pay the claims according to the federal guidelines.

Last year, more than $835 million in hospital, doctor, nursing care and other health care charges were paid on behalf of Medicare beneficiaries.

CITY OF ROMULUS NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given of a Public Hearing to be held in the Romulus City Council Chambers Tuesday, April 25, 1978 at 7:00 p.m. to hear testimony for or against the following Zoning Ordinance Amendments; the hearing will be held at 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan:

1. Amend Section 2.01, DEFINITIONS

Add:
CZ. (1). TRUCK TERMINAL. Any premises used for the loading or unloading of trucks, bringing freight to be assembled and/or stored for routing, but where such storage of cargo is in an enclosed structure and is incidental and related to the primary function of motor freight companies, air freight companies, and freight forwarders. Warehouses are not included in this definition.

2. Amend Section 3.01 DISTRICTS.

Add:
M-T Industrial Transportation
3. Provide for Truck Terminal Parking.
Amend Section 6.02 TABLE OF OFF-STREET PARKING REQUIREMENTS

	Number of Spaces	Per Each Unit of Measure as follows:
(35) Truck Terminals	1	Employee, plus Truck berth or docking space on the site.
	3 (10 x 70 foot spaces)

4. Provide for an intermediate industrial district to permit truck terminals and other uses.

Amend the Zoning Ordinance to add a new SECTION 16A., M-T Industrial-Transportation District:

16A.01 STATEMENT OF PURPOSE. In the M-T District, the intent to permit certain uses and industries which are a light manufacturing character in industrially planned areas of the City. Further, the intent is to permit larger-scale trucking terminal operations involving interstate and intrastate motor carriers which activities are incompatible with the great majority of other land uses and are most suitably placed in strategic locations, close to complementary uses and other truck terminals, and locations which are efficiently coordinated with the City's planned street and thoroughfare system. It is further intended to provide for certain heavier industrial uses under certain conditions designed to avoid adverse impacts on other permitted uses.

16A.02 PERMITTED PRINCIPAL USES.

a. All permitted and special approval uses in the M-1 District, subject to the restrictions of that district.

b. Truck terminals, subject to the following standards:

- 1) A landscaped, planted open space of a minimum of twenty-five feet in width shall be provided along the full frontage of the site.
 - 2) No structures, facilities or parking area shall be located within twenty-five feet of any residentially zoned property.
 - 3) The portion of the site used for parking and/or storage of truck tractors and/or trailers shall be obscured by a berm on all side abutting residential, office, C-1 and C-2 districts, and on any front yard.
 - 4) The site shall be designed so that all vehicles can move in a forward manner upon entering and leaving the site, to eliminate the necessity of backing up to enter or exit the site.
 - 5) Truck terminals shall be located only on a road which has direct access to a freeway via roads which are capable of handling heavy truck traffic.
 - 6) Minimum area for truck terminal sites shall be one (1) acre and minimum street frontage shall be 100 feet.
- c. Uses associated with truck terminals: cartage and express facilities, parcel delivery stations.
- d. Distribution, service and processing centers for commercial and service uses whose basic operations or business functions occur elsewhere. Such facilities in themselves shall not provide passerby or retail-type services and/or trade.
- e. Accessory buildings and uses customarily incidental to the above Permitted Principal Uses.

16A.03 PERMITTED USES AFTER SPECIAL APPROVAL. The following uses may be permitted subject to the conditions hereinafter imposed and subject further to the review and approval of the Planning Commission:

a. All permitted and special approval uses permitted in the M-2 INDUSTRIAL DISTRICT, except junk yards, subject to the restrictions of that district and further subject to the following conditions:

- 1) A one hundred foot buffer of greenspace shall be provided between all industrial buildings and parking and storage areas and the property lines of abutting residentially zoned districts.
- 2) In considering the above special uses, the Planning Commission may require that the applicant provide detailed information and studies which indicate procedures, safeguards and methods by which the standards identified in Section 17.05 will not be exceeded.

16.04 SITE PLAN REVIEW. In the M-T Industrial-Transportation District, a site plan shall be submitted for review and approval of the Planning Commission in accordance with Section 4.37 of this ordinance.

16.05 INDUSTRIAL PERFORMANCE STANDARDS. Any use established in the M-T Industrial-Transportation District shall not be permitted to carry on any activity or operation or use of land, building, equipment that produces irritants to the sensory perceptions greater than the measurements established in Section 16.05 INDUSTRIAL PERFORMANCE STANDARDS.

16.06. AREA, HEIGHT, BULK AND PLACEMENT REQUIREMENTS. (In accordance with the attached Schedule of Regulations, Section 19 of this ordinance).

5. Amend Section 19.00, Schedule of Regulations to require same regulation as the M-1 Light Industrial District.

Amend Section 19.01, AREA, HEIGHT AND PLACEMENT REGULATIONS

Zoning District
—Minimum Lot Size
Area in Sq. Ft.
Width in Ft.
—Maximum Building Height
In Stories
In Feet	30

—Maximum Coverage of Lot By All Buildings (Per Cost of Lot Area)	35
—Minimum Yard Setback in Feet (a) (b) (c) (h) (l)
Side Yards
Least One	10
Total Two	30
Rear	20

6. Repeat truck terminals as a special approval use in the M-2 Industrial District.

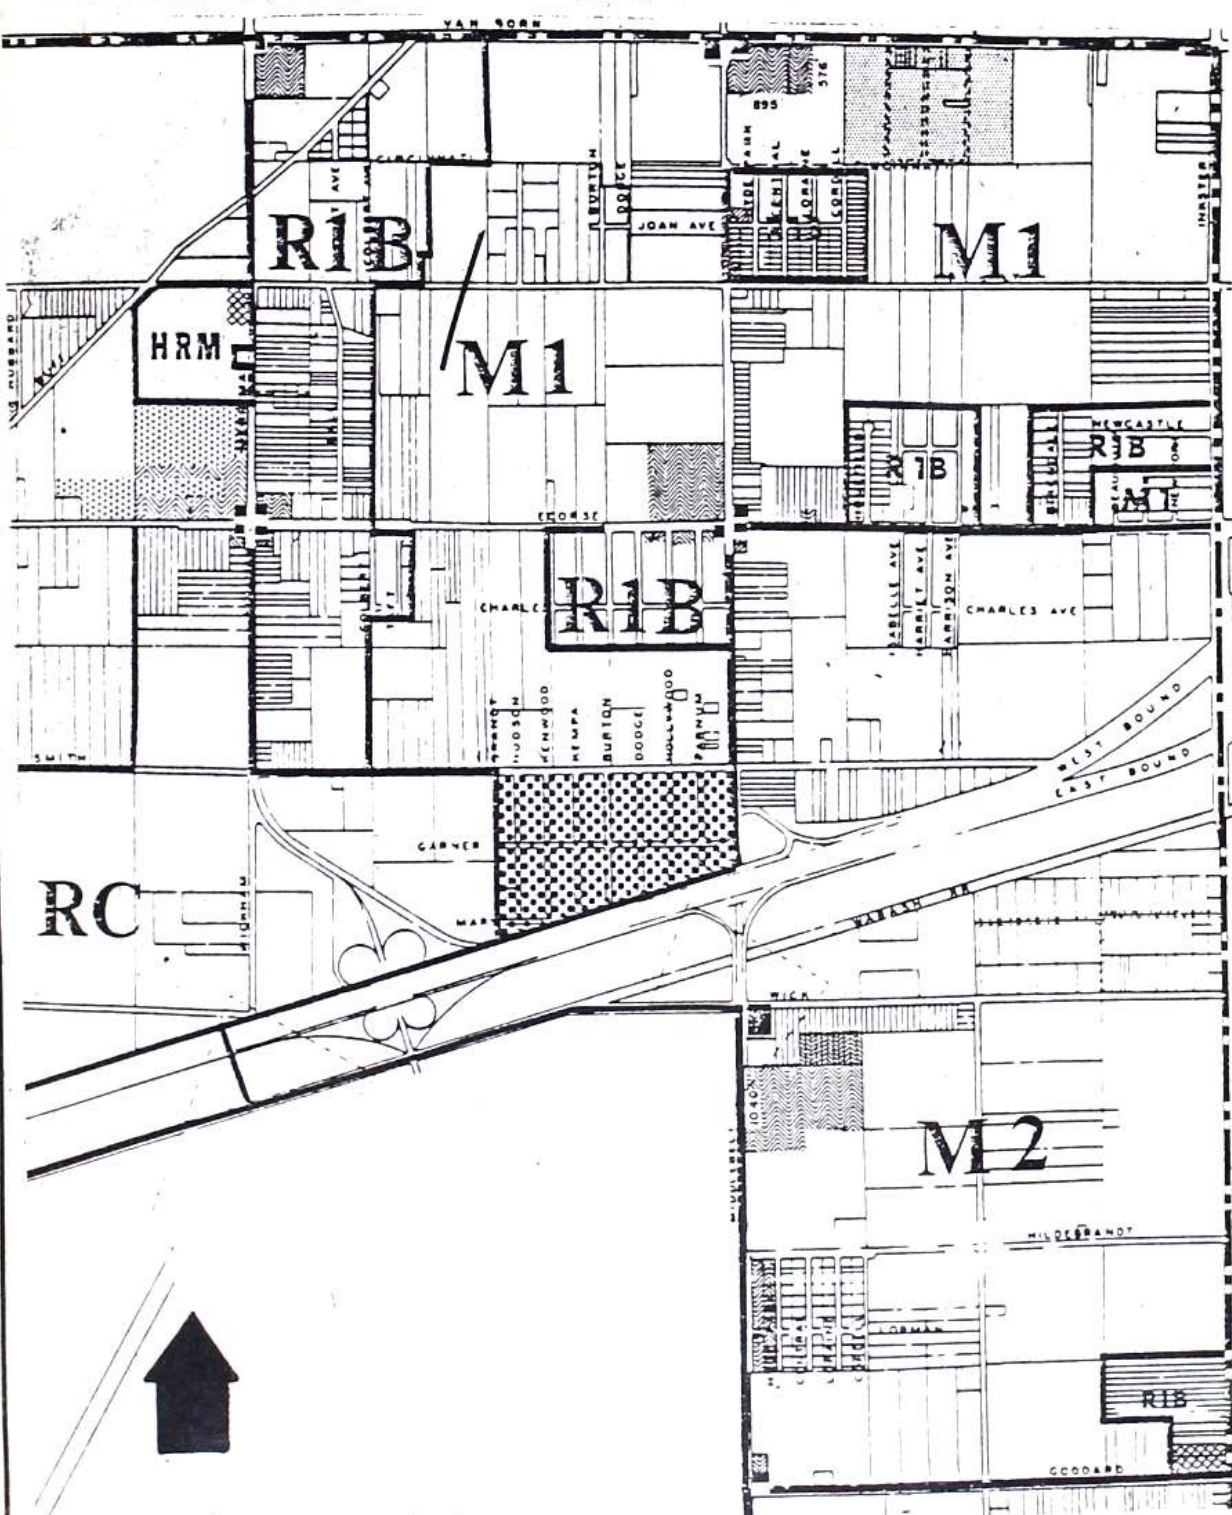

Amend Section 17.03, b.
Delete:
The term "Truck terminals;"

Bledsoe completes military service

Andrew Bledsoe, the son of Mrs. Betty Bledsoe of Biddle Street, Romulus, and the late Andrew Bledsoe Sr., was discharged from the U.S. Air Force March 29 after four years of active duty.

Bledsoe attained the rank of sergeant during his military service and was stationed at Luke Air Force Base for three years as a fuel specialist.

He attended Romulus Senior High School.

Also in the armed forces:

Marine Lance Cpl. John B. Gregg, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Gregg of California Street, Romulus, has been meritoriously promoted to his present rank while serving with the 1st Marine Division at the Marine Corps Base at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

He received the accelerated promotion in recognition of outstanding performance, duty proficiency and demonstrated professional abilities.

He joined the Marine Corps in February 1977.

The U.S. Air Force has promoted James R. Hunt II, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hunt of Springhill, Romulus, to the rank of airman first class.

Airman Hunt is serving at Williams Air Force Base, Ariz., as a jet engine mechanic.

The airman is a 1977 graduate of Romulus Senior High School.

Navy Machinist's Mate 3.c. Alexander T. Koppert, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Koppert of Quirk Road, Belleville, has reported for duty aboard the dock landing ship USS Spiegel Grove, homeported at the Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base, Norfolk, Va.

A 1976 graduate of Belleville High School, he joined the Navy in October 1976.

U.S. Air Force Airman 1.c. Brenna D. Hamilton, a featured performer in the 1978 world-wide Air Force Talent Contest at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., has been selected to appear in the annual "Tops in Blue" variety show.

Airman Hamilton, whose mother is Ms. Muriel Williams of Gabriel Street, Romulus, is among 23 contestants who were tapped for Tops in Blue. The troupe's tours are primarily designed to help provide entertainment at northern bases and other remote or semi-isolated bases. This year's showcase is scheduled to travel to Europe, in addition to appearances at stateside bases.

The airman competed for top honors in the Female Vocalist Category during the recent Air Force contest at McGuire. She is an airfield management specialist with the 301st Combat Support Group at Rickenbacker Air Force Base, Ohio, and earned a spot in the Air Force contest by winning previous competitions at Rickenbacker and the Strategic Air Command finals.

Airman Hamilton, a 1972 graduate of Romulus Senior High School, attended Western Michigan University. Her husband, Senior Airman Brenton K. Hamilton, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hamilton of Hunt Street, Romulus.

He joined the Marine Corps in July 1976.

3 vie for W-W board seat

Two challengers will be competing against the incumbent member of the Wayne-Westland Board of Education in the annual election June 12.

One four-year term on the seven-member school board is available.

Holding that seat now is Thomas Barrett, who is completing his 12th year on the board and is seeking re-election. Barrett, who lives at 32260 Avondale, Westland, is employed as a teacher in the Dearborn public schools.

Another Westlander, who also is a teacher, competing in this election is David S. Lewis. He lives at 644 S. Wildwood, and teaches in the Garden City School District.

The third candidate is from Wayne. He is James Netter, of 5777 W. Hickory Hollow Drive. A former mechanical engineer with the Michigan State Civil Service Commission, he now is employed as a housing consultant with the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Election of the one board member is the only issue on the ballot June 12.

In explaining his candidacy, Barrett said: "I've contributed in the past and think I can continue to do so in the future."

He said he believes a board members should represent the total community and believes he has done that. In defense of the recent schools closings which are sure to be an issue in the election and which Barrett approved, he maintains: "I think we did the best thing possible."

Barrett began his teaching career at Wayne Memorial High School, where he taught for two years, then went to Edsel Ford High School in Dearborn, where he has taught social studies for 20 years. While at Edsel Ford, he has been and is a member of the Dearborn Federation of Teachers, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO. He is a member of the Democratic organizations in Westland and in the 15th Congressional District, is a Democratic precinct delegate, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA.

During his years on the school board, Barrett has served as president, vice-president and treasurer. He and his wife, Germaine, have three children.

Netter is making his second attempt at elective office. He ran for Wayne City Council last year. Although defeated, he continues to be quite active in Wayne city affairs, serving as a member of the Housing Commission and Citizens Advisory Council for Housing and Community Development.

Netter served in the U.S. Navy for four years, is a Vietnam veteran and graduate of Naval Engineering School.

He holds membership in the Wayne Jaycees, is a Democratic precinct delegate, as well as executive board member of the 15th Congressional District Democratic Organization.

Netter also is president of the Hickory Hollow Cooperative Association where he lives. He has an eight-year-old daughter.

In explaining his reasons for seeking the office, Netter lists several complaints he has with the current board. He is critical of the follow-up of the 1976 bond issue, saying some repairs promised were never done.

A related complaint is that voters were not made aware during that bond issue campaign that declining enrollment was to the point where school closings would be considered a year later.

He said he feels there were others alternatives to closing of schools and added that he doesn't think schools are utilized fully as community centers.

He says there should be more of an "equalization" among schools, complaining that some elementary schools have hot lunch programs while students in other schools "eat peanut butter sandwiches."

Candidate David S. Lewis is seeking his first elective office. A 19-year resident of Westland, he and his wife, Marilyn, have three children. He teaches social studies at Radcliff Junior High School in the Garden City district.

He also coached football for 21 years, as well as track and wrestling for more than a dozen years.

Lewis said it first occurred to him to seek the office when he went to an open house at Marshall Junior High School and found no good reason why there are not enough textbooks to go around, creating a situation where students many times cannot take home books to study.

Besides the goal of quality education, another concern of his is to give some kind of tax relief to senior citizens in the district.

He also is critical of the construction of the $12 million educational Service Center in the district (financed largely through federal grants), and the location of central office staff offices there.

Although he will not label himself as being against the school closings, he does say that he doesn't think that all of the five major school closings were necessary.

Both Netter and Lewis deny involvement in the recall drive being devised by some district parents upset with the recent school closings.

Farm meets set

The Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service is holding two meetings on April 19 to inform farmers and landowners on the provisions of the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act.

The act is designed to slow the rapid development of lands best suited for agriculture and open space to more intensive use. It provides tax relief to owners of farms and open space who agree not to develop their land for ten or more years.

The morning meeting will be held 9:30 a.m. at the Canton Center Meeting Hall, 128 N. Canton Center Road, Canton.

The afternoon session will be held at 2 p.m. at the UAW Local 387, 24250 Telegraph Road, Flat Rock, a half mile south of West Road.

All interested landowners are encouraged to attend. There is no charge.

Belleville southpaw fires a no-hitter against Dearborn

Belleville baseball coach Dan Fisher will have a difficult time convincing Dearborn that his Tigers are "young and inexperienced."

Fisher and Belleville opened the 1978 Suburban 8 Conference baseball season Friday afternoon by burying the Pioneers, 10-1 for their second straight win.

Earlier, the Tigers dumped natural rival, Ypsilanti, 6-2.

"I am surprised at our hitting and the pitching we have been getting," said Fisher who entered his second year as the Tigers' head coach. "We are really getting an inspirational lift from two of our seniors (Stan Price and Terry Cole.)

Price, a southpaw, tossed a no-hitter Friday afternoon to pave the way for Belleville's rout. He notched six strikeouts and walked eight. The 5'10" hurler was in control all the way as his mates gave him four runs in the first inning and two runs in both the second and fifth innings.

Belleville got all the runs it needed in the opening inning after two were out. Larry Cicotte started it off with a walk and moved to second when losing pitcher Jim Scala also walked Mark Shelp.

Charles Childers then singled in the first run of the game and with runners on first and second, Rick Elgas also singled, loading the bases.

Bob Newman walked, forcing in a run and then Scala unleashed a wild pitch to produce the next run. He also issued a base-on-balls to Paul Arnett for the fourth run of the inning.

Belleville, which collected seven hits off of two Dearborn pitchers, got two hits from Rob Laney who also stole three bases.

"I have a bunch of players who like to run and we're letting them go," Fisher pointed out. "We stole nine bases against them, and you have to be pleased with that kind of heads up ball playing."

Belleville will go after its third league rival Friday at Plymouth Salem, a team that Fisher says, "We respect a lot."

"They have an excellent program over there," Fisher continued.

Terry Cole got the Tigers off to a good start as he tossed a three-hitter, struck out 10 and walked six en route to an opening day 6-2 victory over Ypsilanti. Losing pitcher Dave Smith yielded eight hits.

The Tigers got on the board in the first inning as Dan Skyles walked, moved to second on Shelp's single and scored when the infield booted John Nowak's grounder.

Belleville picked up two runs in the third inning to increase their lead to 3-0 on base hits by Mark Shelp, John Nowak and a pass ball which scored one run and Jim Mercurio's single brought home the other run in the inning.

Laney walked, stole second and raced home when Shelp connected for his third hit of the day in the fifth. In the sixth, Kevin Fry singled after one was out, moved to third on a hit-and-run with Arnett coming through. Laney then sliced a two-run single.

Ypsi averted the shutout with a two-run seventh.

"It is always nice to beat Ypsilanti," said Fisher. "They have a tough ball club and are having some problems getting started."

Glenn netters perfect by edging Wayne

Westland John Glenn boosted its tennis image and at the same time deflated Wayne Memorial in an encounter of a close kind on the court Friday afternoon.

Coach Don Aldrich's Rockets survived the previously undefeated

Wayne net team's challenge, 4-3.

"There is a healthy rivalry between our two schools," said Aldrich who began his ninth season as Glenn's head tennis coach. "Obviously we're very happy to win and to remain undefeated."

Aldrich pointed out that Wayne's No. 1 player, Todd Beyer, "is probably one of the finest tennis players we will face all year. He is a super player and a fine gentleman."

Wayne Coach Jack Armstrong said he was disappointed that his team didn't win.

"We had a letdown in our third doubles where I felt we would win," Armstrong explained, "and our doubles' team wasn't on their game. But, Glenn has excellent across the board depth and they are an excellent team."

Armstrong pointed out that he is pleased with the over-all progress of his team and that the future looks bright, "because when I drive by our tennis courts at Wayne high, no matter what time it is, you find someone is on the courts and that helps to produce and develop excellent players."

Wayne and Glenn split evenly in the singles competition as Beyer (No. 1) and teammate Jeff Holderness (No. 2) won their points from Pat McBride (6-0, 6-2) and Larry McLure (2-6, 6-3 and 6-4), respectively, while Gary Whited (No. 3) and Scott Healy (No. 4) were Glenn winners in singles by turning back Craig Palmer (6-3, 6-2) and Bob Nawrocki (6-3, 6-1).

Glenn turned the tide by taking command in both the No. 2 and No. 3 doubles.

Glenn has had no trouble with its nonleague rivals as the Westlanders have downed Garden City West (6-1), Churchill (6-1), Robichaud (6-1) and Rochester Adams (7-0), but the defending Northwest Suburban Conference champs figure that North Farmington and Livonia Franklin are waiting to prove that they are the best teams in the league this season.

North Farmington definitely is our strongest challenger and Franklin is greatly improved," Aldrich warned.

Meanwhile, Wayne shut out Taylor Center 7-0 for its opening Great Lakes 8 Conference victory. The Zebras were scheduled to meet Fordson (Monday), Lincoln Park (Thursday) and Monroe (April 24) - three big tests.

"We'll know just where we stand when it comes to conference titles after the next three matches," stressed Armstrong.

The Sports Meridian

A unique baseball quiz

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

There should be a law preventing law-makers in Lansing from asked harried sports editors pertinent and not so pertinent questions minutes before deadline.

It appears that in a touch of desperation one of our veteran lawmakers needed quick answers to a set of questions that he erroneously believed that this tortuous sportswriter could provide.

This respected gentleman of Lansing didn't - or didn't want to - realize that our resourcefulness ends with the sports encyclopedias and that our sources are as reliable as his.

However, I promised to research the information for him if he would help eliminate the federal and state income taxes, provide unlimited finances to our financially-stricken schools and recommend me for a pension equal to but not more than the President of the United States.

The senator, of course, agreed.

Below are the set of baseball questions the senator asked. We have, with the help of that human sports encyclopedist, Bob Holmes, head track and cross country coach at Livonia Franklin, and with the assistance of Hal Middlesworth's secretary in the offices of the Detroit Tigers, have come up with the answers.

However, THE ANSWERS MAY NOT BE CORRECT--so, why don't you take this unique quiz and see if you can fill in the blanks that stumped the "experts" and correct those that may appear wrong.

Are you ready?

1. Who was the first black to break into the American Baseball League?
2. When and where was the first Major League night baseball game played?
3. Who said, "Hit them where they ain't?"
4. In baseball lore, "What was the shot heard around the world?"
5. On June 20th, 1958, Jim Bunning pitched a no-hitter in Fenway Park. Who was the last man he faced and how did he retire him?
6. Name the last two years in which the All-Star Baseball Classic was played in Detroit?
7. Who was the player in the late 50's who played for the Detroit Tigers, was traded to the St. Louis Browns, then returned back to the Tigers via a subsequent trade?
8. What is Buba Morton's real first name?
9. Who was the first black man to play for the Detroit Tigers?
10. Name four Detroit Tiger players during the era of 1910 to 1940 who led the league in batting.
11. Name a catcher who has won the American League batting championship.
12. Who was the last American, (careful, not National) League pitcher to win 30 games in one season before Denny McLain?

Before reading the answers, let me reiterate that the answers may NOT be correct. They are the answers that some of our sources have given us. In fact, there were some questions that no one can answer and maybe you have it hidden in some record book.

1. Larry Doby, outfielder for Cleveland Indians in 1948.
2. Cincinnati, (1938?).
3. Wee Willie Keeler
4. A guess: Bobby Thompson's HR which ended a sensational month long Giants' drive to catch the Dodgers who blew a 12-game lead and lost the pennant. With two away Thompson hammered a homer to give Giants the victory and lift them into a two-way tie with the Dodgers. The two played a playoff game which the Giants' won.
5. A guess: Bunning fanned the immortal Ted Williams to seal the no-hitter.
6. All Star Games were staged in Detroit in 1971, 1951 and 1941.
7. No answer available at this time.
8. Wycliffe Nathaniel.
9. Some say Doby who was traded to the Tigers; however, other argue that the first dark-skinned player was Ozzie Virgil (1958) who was a Latin American native. And Ozzie made his Tiger debut a phenomenal one as he collected five hits in five trips up.
10. Ty Cobb, Charlie Gehringer, Harry Heilmann and Heine Manush.
11. Bill Dickey of N.Y. Yankees.
12. Guess - Lefty Grove. (Wonder what his first name was, folks?).

A perfect cage champ

A team could hardly do better than the Town & Country cage squad which coasted through the 1977-78 Wayne Recreation men's basketball season with an untarnished record. The champs compiled a perfect 10-0 record thanks to a lineup made up of Bob Knapp (bottom row, from left),

Franklin coach gets a look at one too many pitchers

And it eventually cost the Livonia Franklin coach and his Patriots a 5-4 opening day baseball loss.

Leading 4-2 going into the bottom of the seventh, Hellier substituted his third hurler of the day, Daryl Watkins, for Jeff Serigan who was tagged by a surging Northville for three crucial runs.

"I feel that if I had stayed with Watkins who was doing an excellent job, we probably would have won," said Hellier, "however, our plan was to get a look at all four pitchers."

Hellier started with Ken Webster on the mound and Webster worked the first two innings, gave up one run, no hits and walked three, then Chris Baker, the sturdy Patriot pivotman took over the mound duties and held the hosts to a couple of hits, and a run before Watkins pitched two scoreless innings while serving up three hits.

Northville drew first blood, getting on the scoreboard with a single run in the second inning, but the Patriots replied in the top of the third with Gary DeYonker's single, a sacrifice by Tom Hollandsworth and Jim Kazara's run-scoring base hit.

The Patriots picked up two more runs in the fourth as Sergison walked, went to second on a stolen base and scored when Ron Reeter's grounder resulted in a two-base error. Reeter eventually scored when Watkins laced a sacrifice fly. Northville got one of those runs back in the bottom of the inning, but the Livonians widened the margin to 4-2 in the sixth when Sergison drilled the first home run of the season.

Three walks, after one was out, a routine grounder and a error opened the gate for Northville's three-run seventh inning and a victory.

Franklin met John Glenn Monday in the Northwest Suburban Conference opener for both schools and the Patriots were due to play Garden City East on Wednesday, weather permitting.

Meanwhile, John Glenn's baseball fortunes skidded last week as Garden City West swept both ends of a doubleheader from Coach Norm Hoenes' Rockets by the identical scores of 5-1.

Jim Denaray, who lasted six innings, was tagged for the loss as he gave up nine of 10 West hits and all five runs in the first game. He struck

WES TEEPLE

Qualifies for NCAA final

Teeple sets EMU record

Wes Teeple, former All-Area pole vaulter from Westland John Glenn, eclipsed Eastern Michigan University's vaulting record during the Dogwood Relays hosted by the University of Knoxville, Tennessee.

Teeple soared 16 feet, 6 inches to erase a 10-year-old record set by Bill Barrett in 1968. Barrett had cleared 16 feet, 4 inches.

However, Teeple's record-setting performance wasn't enough to win the relays' title. He settled for second place as Rick Rogers, another athlete from Michigan (Jackson Community College), won the event with a leap of 17 feet.

"We had been zeroing on the record for some time now," said Rance Teeple, Wes' older brother. "He's coming into his own."

Wes, a senior majoring in industrial education, qualified for the National Collegiate Athletic Association's (NCAA) finals off of his second place performance. The NCAA finals will be staged from June 1 through 3 in Eugene, Oregon.

Wes still owns the John Glenn record at 14 feet, 1 inch, a performance which earned for him All-Area and Northwest Suburban Conference honors. He will be a strong candidate to win the Mid-American Conference title in his specialty.

Romulus is losing 'close encounters'

Stoh: 'We're a year away from being a great team'

Losing "heartbreakers" doesn't boost a coach or team's morale. But, despite a couple of close losses, Romulus baseball coach Dennis Stoh remains enthused about his young Eagles. Romulus dropped a 2-1 decision to Cherry Hill and was blanked 2-0 by Ann Arbor Pioneer before the Eagles broke loose and picked up their first victory of the season at the expense of Woodhaven, 8-4.

"We lost our ace hurler Mike Marsiglia to a leg injury just before the start of the season," said Stoh, "and that hurt our chances a great deal. But we have a fine bunch of junior players and two seniors and I really feel we are about a year away from being a great team," said Stoh. Marsiglia fractured a bone in his leg during sliding drills in the gym and it's doubtful he'll be back this season. Stoh used pitcher Jim Sullivan in the opener against Woodhaven and he gave up eight hits while his teammates stalked him to 13 and a three-run first inning lead. The key blow was a bases-loaded double by Steve Venier who chased home Russ Ayers, Mike Johnson and Mike Williams - all of whom had singled to get aboard. Williams had three hits, including a pair of singles and a double and is presently six of nine at the plate. Mike Johnson latched on to three singles. Against Pioneer, Ayers suffered the loss after pitching five scoreless innings. Ann Arbor got two earned runs in the sixth on four hits and then stood up for the victory. The Romulus hurler struck out four and walked five. Winning pitcher Tim Griffith notched five strikeouts and gave up three hits, all singles to Mike Brooks and a pair to Williams. Cherry Hill scored single runs in the fourth and fifth inning and Buck struck out 10 as the Spartans edged Romulus 2-1. The Spartans took the lead in the fourth when Buck singled but was forced out on Ron Sosnowski's fielder's choice, then Mike Doyle singled, putting runners on first and second. Brian Hewitt then came through with a run-scoring single. The Spartans made it 2-0 in the next inning when Sosnowski singled home Tim Hoffer who had singled, went to second on a fielder's choice. Romulus got one of those runs back in the sixth when Steve Venier doubled and Ayers also drilled a double.

Cold hurts Tiger thinclads

Cold weather crippled Belleville's ace quarter-miler Bradley McLean and paved the way for Trenton's come-from-behind 84-74 Suburban 8 Conference dual meet victory over Coach David Medley's Tigers last week. McLean, one of the top quartermilers in the area, suffered cramps to the calf muscle during the pivotal event and finished third. He was scratched for the mile relay.

"I don't want to take anything away from Trenton because they came on really strong at the end," said Medley. "But I was expecting to get seven points in that event (44-yard dash) and we only got two because McLean and our second man, Mike Koski, had their leg muscles knotted up in the quarter due to the cold weather.

"The victory inflated Trenton and deflated our team it seemed," Medley pointed out. Belleville managed to salvage six of the 16 first places with Chris Koger supplying two of them. Koger leaped 6'5" in the high jump and long jumped 17 feet, 10 inches. Earlier in the week the Tigers picked up 13 firsts en route to an easy 116-42 victory over non-league rival, Taylor Truman. Koger was again the top high jumper as well as broad jumper, while Bob Oakley also was a double winner, sweeping the mile (4:48) and the 2-mile run (10:16).

Meet results: Trenton 84, Belleville 74 out four and walked one before Pat Kaltenback took over. Doug Boston checked the Rockets on a seven-hitter, losing his bid for a shutout in the bottom of the seventh when Graig Walker singled home Tim Ruark. In the nightcap, Rick Robinson gave up seven-hits, fanned five and walked seven in losing to the Tigers. Glenn scored in the second inning as Jim Irwin was safe on an error, stole second and came home on Mark Cesarz' first triple of the season. The Westlanders padded their over-all record to 3-5 at the expense of Ypsilanti. The nonleague duel went 10 innings before Glenn settled the issue with two runs in the top of the 10th on a single by Walker, a triple by Jim Remington who was tossed out trying to stretch the hit into a homer. With one-away, Ruark walked, moved to second via a fielder's choice, then John Mervyn singled and Doug Martin came through with the key hit, a single scoring what proved to be the winning run. Bill Robertson won the marathon pitching duel as he struck out 13 and walked four in giving up seven hits.

52nd wins 'Over 30' hockey playoff title

Extra Point Bar may have won the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey championship, but 52nd Show Bar has the honor of ending the season with the league's final victory and the playoff title. The 52nd conglomeration proved tough in the stretch and when it counted in the finals as they ripped Huron Valley Steel to secure the playoff championship, 4-1. Tim Vandenberg sealed the nets tight for the winners as he allowed only one goal in the final two games of the season. His superb efforts in the final paved the way for 52nd Bar's victory. Jerry Grubbe opened the scoring for the winners with a first period goal, but Tom Dilauro countered with Huron's lone tally to tie up the game at one-all. 52nd then scored three unanswered goals thanks to Wayne Auten, Jerry Robertson and John Dombrowski. The playoff champs brought the season down on a 15-6-3 season. After finishing third in the regular season conflict, 52nd became the hottest team on ice.

Cage fundamentals

The high school basketball season may be behind us but these youngsters are very eager to learn the basics of the exciting game. They have flocked to a cage clinic organized by Romulus High's varsity cage coach Rod Hanna (standing at left) and the Romulus Recreation department. Some 170 young players are taking part in the Saturday clinics held from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at North Junior High. Elementary-age youngsters practice from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m., then the girls, ages 14 to 18 take over until 1 p.m., when the boys again take to the hardwood from 1 to 3 p.m. For further information contact the recreation offices.

Churchill '9' routs Novi in opener, 9-1

Though inclement weather twice-postponed Livonia Churchill's baseball debut, Coach Rog Frayer's Chargers made up for lost time by wiping out nonleague rival Novi 9-1 last week. Frayer's minions were due to meet Highland Park and Crestwood but rains and cold weather forced them to cancel the games which, according to the Churchill coach, will be made up at a later date. Jeff Morris and Matt Krakowski combined on a three-hitter as the Livonians subdued Novi 9-1 in the season-delayed opener for the Livonians. Morris, who got the victory, twirled a one-hitter for four innings, struck out four and walked three. Krakowski pitched the last three.

Pat McCauley was tagged for the loss as he lasted three innings and yielded six runs. Churchill jumped on McCauley for two runs in the first inning as Dave Krick fanned but reached first on a catcher's error, then Bob Campbell got aboard also on an error while Chris Clegg walked to load the bases, bringing up Mike Devlin. Devlin drilled a line shot off the first baseman's mitt, scoring on run and an easy infield pop fly hit off the bat of Steve Raymond resulted in Novi's third error of the inning and the second run. Churchill erupted for four runs in the second after one was out when Mark Williams walked and Krick latched on to a McCauley fastball and sent it into orbit for the team's first homer of the season. Clegg then doubled and, after Devlin walked, both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Clegg came through with a two-run single, padding the Chargers lead to 6-0. The Livonians tilted the boards again in the third inning again with one-away as Marty Abraham singled and was chased home by Williams' double. Williams scored when Krick singled and Campbell's double produced what was the final Churchill run of the game. Novi averted the shutout with a bottom of the fourth run. "We got some strong performances from our seasoned veterans," said Frayer who will launch the Western Six Conference season Wednesday (April 18) at home against Walled Lake Western. "Clegg, whom I consider one of the finest catchers on the prep scene today along with Devlin showed they will be tough."

On Friday Churchill will make up the rained out affair with Dearborn Heights Crestwood at Crestwood.

About four out of every five buyers take out an installment loan when they buy a car, paying off the debt in fixed monthly sums. In most cases, the collateral for the loan is the car itself. If the borrower defaults on his payments, the car can and may be repossessed. If the resale price does not cover the balance of the unpaid note, the borrower may be sued for the difference. The cost of the money used to purchase the car is an important consideration. The cost of the money is the interest on the automobile loan.

Cut the cost of running your car with quality parts and service from KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan Ave., Inkster! We offer a complete line of parts and accessories for both foreign and domestic cars. Do-it-yourself mechanics are invited to come in for the materials and advice they need to fix their own cars. We also offer full machine shop service for all sizes and types of engines - from motorcycle to Diesel. Our service is fast, efficient and reasonably priced. Our skilled mechanics are experienced in all types of engine repair problems. Call KOSIN'S at 563-3894. We are open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays until 5 P.M.

AUTO TIP:
Maintenance costs on a car start low and rise as the car depreciates.

Spartans win four in a row

improvement, the Spartan coach got the wide assortment of pitching and hitting that produced four consecutive victories.

recent years," said Mientkiewicz who was scheduled to open the Tri-River Conference campaign Monday night at home to Southgate Schafer. "I'm really pleased with

pair of singles while Sosnowski belted two singles and a double.

Dundee scored in the top of the first, but the Spartans tied it up at 1-1 in the bottom of the inning, then trailed again 2-1 after three before they tallied single runs in the fourth and fifth and picked up two more in the sixth to secure the victory.

The Spartans again needed a rally to tie it up. After Dundee put two runs on the board in the third inning, Cherry Hill erupted for two in the same inning as Potvin singled, but was forced at second on Mark Friar's fielder's choice. Hoffer got aboard on an error, putting Spartan runners on first and second. After Buck grounded out, Sosnowski came through with a two-run single.

Cherry Hill took the lead briefly in the bottom of the fourth as Doyle walked to lead off, Rick Searcy also walked and Tony Kreis singled in a run.

Buck also beat Romulus 2-1 on a three-hit, 10 whiff pitching performance, and the Spartans turned back Garden City East in another nonleague 6-1 on Brian Hewitt's pitching efforts.

In the opening inning, with one-away, Tim Hoffer walked, stole second and scored the tying run on Buck's single. The Spartans tied it again in the fourth on Larry Baker's lead-off walk, Jerome Potvin's single which advanced Baker to third and an error, scoring the run.

Cherry Hill scored what proved to be the winning run in the fifth when, with two-away, Mike Doyle walked, Don Boren singled to left after Doyle had stole second. The two insurance runs were produced again with two away as Hoffer walked, Buck singled and Ron Sosnowski drove a line shot past the second baseman driving in the runs.

Franklin places title on block

Champs clash with Westlanders on Thursday

Coach Bob Holmes and his Franklin Patriots will attempt to clear one of two crucial hurdles that await the Northwest Suburban Conference defending track champ this season.

Holmes' runners place their title on the block Thursday at Westland John Glenn, one of two teams the Franklin skipper believes his team must stop in order to retain the championship.

"I expect a very close meet," said Holmes after his Patriots came up with a pair of nonleague victories last week. "I feel the winner of our meet Thursday will go on to challenge North Farmington for the title."

Despite the inclement weather, Franklin managed to get in a couple of excellent nonleague tune-ups last week. The Patriots eked out a narrow 80-78 victory over perennial track power and crosstown rival, Churchill, then went on to bury Northville 103-55, sweeping 10 of the 16 first places.

It was the first time since the early 70's that Holmes beat his track nemesis, Churchill.

"We're very pleased about our victory over Churchill," said Holmes who pointed out that it "went down to the final event."

"They won the mile, but when out pole vaulter won, that turned the tide in our favor," Holmes said.

Vaulter Dave Kmet cleared 12 feet, 6 inches to beat Dave Good, who also cleared that height but placed second because of more misses.

Dave Kiely, one of the top discus and shot putters in the area a year ago, and endurance runner, Tobin Jones, accounted for four Churchill firsts, while Dave Bowen picked up three firsts and took part on the winning 880-yard Franklin relay team.

Bowen's 20 feet, 9 1/2 inch leap gave him a first in the long jump, and he also chalked up victories in the 100-yard dash (10.9) and 220-yard dash (23.1). Dave teamed with Nate Kean, Phil Frusti and Paul Berry to win the speed relay in 1:34.4.

Kiely established himself as the top discus thrower in the area with a 162 feet, 8 inch effort, then blasted off with a 52 feet, 2 1/2 inch toss in the shot put for his two firsts, while Jones churned a 2:04.8 in winning the half mile and crossed the finish line in 4:35.0 for his victory in the mile run.

Glenn has too much depth for Robichaud's thinclads Dominating the field events, Westland John Glenn displayed too much depth for perennial speedsters, Dearborn Heights Robichaud, in their annual confrontation in track last week.

Coach Barry Basel's Rockets soared past the Rockets 98-58 for their third nonleague victory of the season. The Westlanders will learn just what their chances for a Northwest Suburban Conference title are Thursday when they host Livonia Franklin, the defending co-champs.

The winner of the dual meet will have an opportunity to challenge North Farmington for the right to be labeled the team to beat in the league.

Glenn captured all five field events against the Dearborn Heights' thinclads who received a superb performance from their junior sprinter Mark Woodson. Woodson was clocked in 10.4 (against the wind) in winning the 100-yard dash, then churned a 22.7 to claim the 220.

Glenn to host Relays

A field of 12 teams have gathered for the 17th running of the Elks Relays which will be staged Saturday at Westland John Glenn Field.

Dearborn, the defending champ, will face a couple of newcomers who could upset Coach Bob Bridges' plans to repeat. Royal Oak Dondero, one of the powers in Class A competition, will be making its debut in the local relays and the newcomer is considered one of the favorites.

Also seeking the title will be Bishop Borgess, last year's runners-up, Detroit Catholic Central, Cherry Hill, Hazel Park, Garden City West, Livonia Franklin, Stevenson, Taylor Truman, Walled Lake Western and Glenn.

Competition will get underway at 11:30 a.m. with the pole vaulting and the running events will be staged beginning at 1:30 p.m.

There is a 50 cents donation for admission.

Grissom's world

Taking

By SAM GRISSOM
Outdoor Writer

Instead of leaving the bail of the reel open, I tape a large woman's hair pin on the rod between the reel and the first guide. I clip the line in the hairpin and leave a three foot loop between the reel and the clip.

The line will hold against wind and wave action, yet a fish can pull it out quite easily. The loop will allow the fish to run free long enough to swallow the hook, and when he hits the end the closed bail will set the hook. It's the best way I've found to fish two rods and not miss hits.

Trolling is another good bet and the key to success is long light lines. Early morning seems to be the best time; so I usually get out before daybreak and fish until 11 a.m. I then go out again and fish the last couple of hours before dark.

This will be my last article for a while. I've got a few traps planned, some new lures to test, and I want to try to design a better side planer board.

I've enjoyed writing this column and I hope I've been able to make it enjoyable for you as well. During my absence from the paper, should you have any questions about a particular fishing method, or want information about fishing a certain area, contact the paper and I'll get back with you.

If you're out and see a Boston Whaler with "FEVER" in bright red letters on the side give me a shout. Thanks again for reading my columns and I hope you have a summer of tight lines and full stringers. Have a ball!

Today I just finished getting my boat ready for the season. I hope that summer will seem as long as winter has. I sure could use a long summer of fishing.

If you want to start your fishing season off with a bang, head for the surf. With spring finally starting to arrive the shallow water is warming up. The increasing water temperatures attracts the small bait fish and smelt; and close behind them are the lakers, steelhead, and browns.

The river mouths and the river delta areas are the most productive spots to fish, and nothing is as thrilling as a large steelhead trying to jerk your arm off when he smacks your lure. Blue and silver, and green and silver are probably your best lure color selections since the predominate forage fish at this time of year is smelt.

Another effective method for the surf is stillfishing with spawn bags. I've found the best method for me has been two barrel swivels and a dropper. The first swivel is threaded on the mainline with a twelve inch dropper attached. The second barrel swivel is then attached with a three foot leader. I then use a No. 8 or No. 10 short shank hook with small spawn bags. I force a miniature marshmallow on the hook until it clears most of the shank. I then hang a four or five egg spawn bag on it, crimp several split shot on the dropper line, cast out, place the rod in a sand spike, rig a second rod the same way, and I sit back and wait.

Cherry Hill is running for 4th title

Despite disciplinary and training problems, Cherry Hill recovered from a nonleague triangular loss to Lakeland and Warren Woods to edge Southgate Schafer last Thursday.

Coach Joe Grasley's Spartans pulled out an 81-75½ victory over Schafer by winning the last event, the mile relay.

The victory launched the Inkster-based high school into title orbit, according to Grasley whose teams have won the last three versions of the Tri-River Conference championship.

"After that triangular meet I felt this was going to be a long season," Grasley noted, "however the kids performed well, running above and beyond their ability in many cases."

"And because of their performances against Schafer, which I consider one of two teams that we had to beat for the title, I'm convinced that we're going to be in the thick of the conference title race."

Cherry Hill held a mere one point edge when the starter called the mile relay teams to the block. Grasley singled out John Ireland, Tom Goring, Darryl Gallant and Chuck Hobi for the event and they had no difficulty earning the five points that sealed the victory.

Gallant also contributed two other firsts: he leaped 19 feet, 1 inch in the long jump, leading a Spartan "slam" of the event, then came back for a 54.3 to win the quarter-mile.

Benefit golf date is set

Earl Wilson, a former pitcher with the 1968 World Champion Detroit Tigers, has been named as chairman of the local Big Brothers-Big Sisters of America National Sweepstakes and Hole-in-One Weekend, Saturday, May 20, and Sunday, May 21.

Many local courses will be taking part in the event which will feature a Hole-in-One promising up to $250 in prizes for any winner. There will also be a sweepstakes drawing where hundreds of prizes will be given away including a one-week all-expense paid vacation for two to the McCormick Golf Ranch in Scottsdale, Arizona.

Wilson pointed out that this will be an enjoyable event for golfers, and at the same time enable the local agency to raise additional funds to reach more families who could benefit from Big Brothers-Big Sisters service.

Ypsi gals hand Glenn 1st setback

Westland John Glenn's girls' track team jumped back from its first loss of the season to subdue Plymouth Canton, 82½-53½, last Thursday.

Coach Cheryl Caughey's Rockets earlier in the week dropped an 83-48 decision to a highly-respected Ypsilanti conglomeration.

The loss and victory left the Westlanders with a 2-1 record as they prepare to face Livonia Franklin (April 18) and Livonia Stevenson (Thursday, April 20).

Debbie Conboy accounted for two of the four Glenn first places against Ypsilanti as she hurled the shot 29 feet and also won the discus with an 87 feet, 3 inch toss. Teammates Jean Burt and Caren Carnutte captured top honors in the 220 yard dash and the high jump, respectively.

Sweeping nine of 14 first places, Glenn subdued Plymouth Canton 82½-53½ as Miss Carnutte turned in with a pair of victories. She leaped 4 feet, 10 inches in the high jump, then ran a 18 seconds flat for the 110-yard hurdles.

Wayne gals breeze past G.C.

Claiming 12 of the 14 events, Wayne Memorial won its first girls' dual meet track decision last Thursday at the expense of Garden City East, 109½-24½.

Wayne had earlier dropped a close verdict to arch-rivals, Westland John Glenn.

Coach Floyd Carter's Zebras produced three double winners. They are Lisa Nibert, Kathy Weyand and Pat Reighard.

Miss Nibert cleared 5 feet, 4 inches to top the performers in the high jump and also leaped 14 feet, 11 inches in the long jump.

Miss Reighard dominated the sprints with a 12.6 and 29.5 for the 100 and 220-yards, respectively. Miss Weyand proved to be the best miler (6:30) and the top 2-miler (12:59) in the field.

2. In Memoriam

Byron,
I am waiting for you to come home. I can't except the fact that you never will. I loved you Byron and I told you so.
You know we were close together.
I needed you and you needed
me. Why did you have to go. I don't understand.

Signed:
Joseph Whitehead

RUSTPROOFING FACTS (AND SOME CURRENT FICTION)

FICTION: Some car manufacturers are now using anti-corrosion materials and methods that eliminate the need for rustproofing.

FACT: Every 1977 car requires rustproofing protection after it leaves the factory. Every rust-prone area in a car must be protected to assure real rustproof protection.

FACT: Ziebart Rustproofing offers the protection of an exclusive process that has proven its effectiveness in preventing rust-through. Over two million satisfied customers can't be wrong.

FICTION: Car dealers can now offer rustproofing that is the equivalent of Ziebart rustproofing.

FACT: Only an authorized Ziebart Dealer can use the amazing Ziebart sealant that actually penetrates welded seams to get in where rust can begin.

FACT: Only an authorized Ziebart Dealer can use the nine patented spray tools designed to reach every hidden or boxed-in area where rust can get a foothold.

Separate the facts from the fiction and you'll find the only place to get real rustproof protection for your new car is from your Ziebart Dealer. He's the expert with the experience.

STAND UP FOR AMERICA

It's hard to be a cynic when they're playing the national anthem. It's hard not to notice that lump in your throat, that tear in your eye. That's our flag. Our country. Home of freedom. Land of free enterprise. Where a kid can grow up to be President. Or maybe an Olympic champion.

Sure, America has problems. And people like to talk about them. But it's still the best nation on earth. Isn't it about time someone talked about the good that is America?

Your local board of REALTORS® thinks so. Enough to lead a letter-writing campaign to Congress to tell the world: "I'm proud to be an American. I'm proud of our free enterprise system. I'm proud of my freedom, proud of my rights, including the right to own private property."

REALTORS® are speaking out on behalf of their country. And they need your help. If you'd like to help them to "Score Another Letter for America," talk to a REALTOR® today.

Don't Postpone a Home of Your Own.

Prices are going up, real estate taxes are going up, energy costs are going up. Some people think that this is a bad time to buy homes.

Those people are wrong. Because prices, taxes and energy costs are going up, this is a good time to buy.

Figure it out for yourself. No matter where you live, you'll end up paying for the added expense. But if you're living in a home of your own, you'll end up with the benefits of ownership, as well as the bills. You'll get the tax breaks, the capital appreciation, the equity accrual.

Talk to a Stinehour Representative about the best home to buy for the money you have in mind. They are real estate professionals, and experts in advising you on the right home to own.
